MORE THAN 100,000 PEOPLE IN FRANCE DRIVEN FROM THEIR HOMES BY FLOODS

Scores of Villages Submerged; Paris Partly Inundated Many Fatalities and Damage Enormous Rivers Are Still Rising.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—The river authorities early this morning announced that the Seine would continue to rise until the high record of 1802 was reached. The Lyons Railroad company sent out a notification that all service out of Paris has been suspended.

The great bonded warehouse at Bercy appears to be doomed to destruction, involving an immense loss.

The Seine at Colombes threatens momentarily to mount the parapet and flood the populous working class suburb of Gennevilliers.

A steamboat pontoon was swept against one of the arches of the Pont De L'Alma, completely obstructing the river at that point. It probably will have to be blown up.

Floods have now broken out in the south, the rivers Oise, Charente, Adour and Dordogne having overflowed their banks. Factories are rising along the coast, filling the ports with shipping in distress.

At Conflens 14 houses have collapsed. The Aube canal has burst, flooding Saint Just and several other villages.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—The floods have brought disaster to a large part of France. The ordinarily modest and peaceful Seine is now a raging torrent and rising at the rate of more than half an inch an hour. As it furiously rushes seaward it spreads the menace of increasing misery and destruction.

The general expectation that the maximum of the flood would be reached tonight has not been realized. The Seine's affluents are rising steadily and the official estimate tonight is that the Seine will be at least 15 inches higher tomorrow afternoon. Victims of the flood number more than 100,000 and the monetary loss is incalculable.

Thousands of poor are hopelessly ruined. The government has requisitioned army and navy material to house sufferers, and boats for the rescue of the stricken as well as of those imprisoned in the houses in the flood centers on all sides of Paris.

Scores of Villages Submerged.

The region of inundation is steadily enlarging and scores of villages are completely submerged, the people fleeing for their lives and abandoning everything. In many cases the soldiers have been obliged to use force in compelling the inhabitants to leave their homes. Hundreds refused to go, clamoring only for food and water.

In Paris the situation is rapidly becoming worse, the floods sparing neither the rich nor the poor.

The flood is invading the compactly built area, undermining buildings and forcing the evacuation of many houses. All the streets in one arrondissement are running rivers. Subway and tram service are diminishing, and in every section gas and electric lights are failing.

Paris is practically cut off south and west, and if present conditions continue the question of food will become menacing.

The senate today appropriated $400,000 for national relief. The public aid fund for this purpose is swelling. President Fallieres heads the list with $4,000. The Rothschilds have given $20,000.

The entire population of Ivry-Sur-Seine and adjacent places, are in a desperate state. Only the tops of the houses at Alfortville are visible, the water averaging 12 feet in the streets. At this place since 6 o'clock this morning 3,000 persons have been rescued by boats, and 30,000 others from this section have found safety by their own effort.

Acts of Piracy.

The rescuers had more to contend with than the turbulent waters. Groups of "Apaches" had gathered and were soon engaged in the work of piracy. They seized several boats and robbed rescued and rescuers alike. In some cases they entered the houses and carried on their depredations. Finally a force of soldiers appeared on the scene and drove off the looters.

There were many cases of drowning, and many died as a result of shock and exposure. Old and infirm, and finding themselves unable to leave, a man and a woman hanged themselves to a beg post.

The hospital at Ivry, containing 2,000 patients, is surrounded by water. As there is no means of cooking the food or of heating the building, the patients must be removed, unless the flood subsides, and the attending physicians fear that grave results will follow.

President Fallieres and Premier Briand made an automobile trip this afternoon through the flooded districts in the eastern section of Paris. They walked through some of the streets knee deep with mud and water, and saw the crowds fleeing, men tugging at valises and trunks and weeping women burdened with children and all sorts of household belongings.

The conditions were appalling and the president and premier hastened away to seek relief for the suffering people.

CHURCHES TO CONDUCT EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN

Thirty Ministers, Divided Into 10 Divisions, will Preach Before Laymen Convention.

The outlining of a special educational campaign to be conducted by every church of the city during the three weeks preceding the missionary convention, which is to be held here March 1-4, was the feature of a meeting of the committeemen of various churches of the city, held yesterday noon at the Y. M. C. A. Prof. H. F. Smith, who has charge of the educational feature of the convention, outlined a plan by which the 30 ministers of the city will be divided into 10 divisions, each division to speak at one church during the period preceding the convention. Their addresses will be along missionary lines, and every church member in this district is to be reached, if possible. The last Sunday before the convention special speakers will talk at all the churches of the city on the missionary movement.

The plan outlined by the committeemen will be proposed for all southern Colorado, and communications embodying the idea will be sent out today. It is hoped that the educational feature will be simultaneous throughout the section named.

Another noon lunch will be held Friday, when all the chairmen of the committees in the city will be given instructions relative to the work of the next two weeks, and will consider further plans.

PUEBLO, Jan. 25. The charter convention proposition was defeated in the election in this city today; the vote being: for a convention, 2101; against 2,131. Less than one-third of the vote was out and the day passed off quietly. The people who were fighting the convention were overconfident and came near losing.

REMOVES OBSTACLE TO COPPER MERGER

U. S. COURT DISSOLVES ITS INJUNCTION.

Utah Company Promptly Absorbs Boston Consolidated and Nevada Consolidated Companies

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 25. Judges Lanning and Cross in the United States court here today dissolved the preliminary injunction that had been granted by Judge Cross, restraining the stockholders of the Utah Copper company from holding a meeting to pass on the proposition to merge with the Boston Consolidated Copper company.

The case had been before the court for two days. The proceedings to prevent the merger were instituted by Col. Enos A. Wall and Charles W. Graham, stockholders of the Utah company, who claimed that the merger would work an injury to the Utah company and that it was in violation of the Sherman antitrust law.

Application was made to court on behalf of the Utah Copper company to have the proceedings dismissed on the ground that Graham had been hired by Colonel Wall to take part in the suit.

Judges Lanning and Cross in deciding the case did not dispose of this point. They dissolved the preliminary injunction on the following grounds:

First Any violation of the Sherman antitrust law would have to be prosecuted by the government alone, and the only relief individual stockholders could seek would be through a suit for damages.

Secondly, the other grounds upon which Wall and Graham based their suit had been so fully answered and explained by the affidavits on the part of the company that an injunction could not be granted without ignoring the well settled rules of equity practice.

The dissolving of the preliminary injunction removes any obstacle from the way of the Utah company carrying out the proposed merger, which, it is understood, is to include the absorption by the Utah company of not only the Boston Consolidated company but also the Nevada Consolidated Copper company.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The stockholders' meeting of the Utah Copper company was kept in session here all day to await the outcome of the court proceedings at Trenton. On announcement of the decision dissolving the injunction, the stockholders adopted the necessary resolution authorizing the merger. 82 per cent of them voting in its favor.

Late tonight a meeting was called at the Fifth avenue home of Samuel Untermeyer, counsel for the Utah and Boston companies, where an exchange of shares was made, involving over $100,000,000

It is understood that Mr. Untermeyer's fee of $775,000 represents over four years work in bringing about the merger and that this sum was voted to him by the unanimous consent of the stockholders and boards of directors of both the Utah and Boston Copper companies

CALEDONIANS HONOR MEMORY OF BURNS

250 ATTEND BANQUET AT ANTLERS HOTEL.

Worthy Entertainment Society on 151st Anniversary of Birthday.

"The memory of no man, save that of the Man of Galilee, is more widely celebrated today than that of the immortal memory of Robert Burns."

In those words, Former Mayor J. R. Robinson succinctly summed up the gist of the speeches delivered last evening at the annual banquet of the Caledonian society, given by the organization in honor of the one hundred and fifty-first birthday of Robert Burns.

"Weel, Sandy, its a braw nicht, nae doot o' that."

That sentiment indicates the feeling o' a' the canny Scots that attended the function. What wi' the skirl o' the pipes, the singing o' Scotch songs, the dancing o' Scottish steps to the music o' the bagpipes, the evening was one long to be remembered by all of Auld Scotia's sons who attended the annual banquet.

That was the greeting of the Caledonians to those who were their honored guests, although they were not born in the "land o' cakes." Its true that a "wee drappie" was ta'en noo and then, but it all added to the success of the evening.

The spacious dining room of the Antlers was crowded by 270 guests, all of whom wore the sprigs of heather given by officers of the society. The decorations were in red and green, emblematic of the heather, and when the music of the pipes was first heard in the anterooms, a cheer went up that drew tears to many an eye in thinking of the land that produced "Bobbie" Burns and his songs that are now and forever sung the world over.

James A. Orr acted as toastmaster of the evening, and the speakers' list consisted of Major Henry McAllister, who spoke of "The Immortal Memory of Burns;" Mayor H. F. Avery, "The Caledonian Society;" J. B. Stephen, "Our Adopted Country;" Dr. J. F. McConnell, "The Passes," and Dr. J. R. Robinson "The Press," responded to by C. F. Yaeger.

There were also numerous songs, dances and bagpipe selections, and those present made merry until the early morning hours.

STORM KING HOLDS STATE IN ITS GRIP

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS DAMAGE REPORTED.

A heavy wind, reaching a maximum velocity of about 40 miles an hour, did considerable damage in Colorado Springs last night, and a falling temperature, for a while at least, bore out the weather man's forecast that a blizzard was headed for this vicinity. While the wind in this city was not as strong as in other parts of the state, still its velocity was enough to tear limbs from trees, and remove shingles from a number of residences. Added to this, it crossed several wires in residence portions of the city, causing certain districts to be without lights for a short time.

At 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the maximum velocity of the wind registered 30 miles an hour, and increased in volume until it reached the 40 mark, about 11 o'clock. The force of the wind abated considerably after midnight, and while much lower, the temperature did not cause any discomfort. Up to time of going to press there were no indications of snow in this vicinity.

While the storm was at its height, pedestrians met with considerable difficulty in traversing the streets, as the wind picked up a heavy dust. At the fire stations, everything was kept in readiness for emergency calls, it being feared that a small fire might get beyond control and result in a disastrous loss on account of the wind. Although the wind caused the telephone company some trouble, only a few telephones were out of order at the same time, and a good service was maintained throughout the evening.

Much Damage in State.

DENVER, Jan. 25.—A terrific wind damaged thousands of dollars worth of property throughout Colorado tonight. All over the state telephone and telegraph poles and wires are down, frame houses have been torn from their foundations and hundreds of chimneys and smoke stacks demolished. In some localities business is at a standstill, flying debris rendering the streets unsafe.

In Denver a dozen big plate glass windows in the business district were blown in and the residence streets are strewn with the branches of shade trees whipped to pieces by the blasts. The wind fanned alive a dozen small fires, eight alarms being turned in at the same time. The Garden Place school at Globeville was entirely destroyed by fire.

Snow in Mountains.

In the mountains it is snowing heavily and cattle are drifting helplessly before the blizzard.

At Trinidad business was at a standstill today and much minor damage is reported. At Canon City the telegraph and telephone wires and poles are lying on the ground and it is unsafe to walk the streets.

Central City and Georgetown report that a heavy, wet snow is being swept across the mountains, doing much damage.

Travel is unsafe at Idaho Springs; wires are down and many small houses

TAFT TRIES TO ALLAY FEARS IN WALL STREET

FALSE REPORTS AFLOAT

Statement Issued From White House After J. J. Hill Calls on the President.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—President Taft today made public the following statement as to the reports that the administration is planning a crusade against unlawful combinations of capital:

"No statement was issued, either from the attorney general's office or the White House, indicating that the purpose of the administration with reference to prosecutions under the antitrust law is other than as set forth in the message of the President of January 7, 1910.

"Sensational statements as if there were to be a new departure and an indiscriminate prosecution of important industries have no foundation. The purposes of the administration is exactly as already stated in the President's message."

In his special message on interstate commerce and antitrust laws President Taft, in connection with a recommendation for a federal incorporation act, said:

It is the duty and the purpose of the executive to direct an investigation by the department of justice through the grand jury or otherwise into the history, organization and purposes of all the industrial companies with respect to which there is any reasonable ground for suspicion that they have been oraganized for a purpose and are conducting business on a plan which is in violation of the antitrust law.

The work is heavy, but it is not beyond the power of the department of justice, if sufficient funds are furnished, to carry on the investigations and to pay the counsel engaged in the work. But such an investigation and possible prosecution of corporations whose prosperity or destruction affects the comfort not only of stockholders but of millions of wage earners, employes and associated tradesmen must necessarily tend to disturb the confidence of the business community, to dry up the now flowing sources of capital from its places of hoarding and produce a halt in our present prosperity that will cause suffering and strained circumstances among the innocent many for the faults of the guilty few.

"The question I wish in this message to bring clearly to the consideration and discussion of Congress is whether in order to avoid such a possible business danger something can not be done by which the business combinations may be offered a means, without great financial disturbance, of changing the character, organization and extent of their business into one within the lines of the law under federal control and supervision, securing compliance with the antitrust statutes.

Hill Calls on the President.

The President's statement today was issued after he had talked with James J. Hill, and had received the information that prices were crumbling in New York under various reports printed yesterday and today.

Mr. Hill, on leaving the White House, said he did not pretend to represent or speak for the President in anything he said, but he was sure that the President would not attack corporations of themselves, but only the sins of the corporations. If the corporations were violating the laws of the country he supposed they would be brought to book.

Mr. Hill's visit to the White House, it was said, was merely a coincidence. Mr. Hill said he had discussed "general conditions" with the President and had not gone into the subject of the prosecution of the trusts.

Normally, conditions are satisfactory in all directions," said Mr. Hill, "but we don't want a lot of wild stories to get abroad that will cause depression."

Mr. Hill did not want to discuss the President's recommendation as to railroad legislation, saying it was too important a subject to take up "offhand."

"But we do need the rest cure badly," he said, adding that the country should be allowed full time to recover from the panic of 1907. He thought three

ATTACKS ALLEGED LOBBY

Ballinger-Pinchot Investigation to Begin Today With Glavis as First Witness.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The Ballinger-Pinchot investigation will begin tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. The first witness called is L. R. Glavis, formerly of the land office, who was dismissed by President Taft because of charges he made against Secretary Ballinger.

A new and sensational factor appeared today to add intensity to the already sufficiently excited situation over the Alaska coal lands, on the eve of the beginning of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation.

John E. Ballaine, of Seattle, said to be the largest individual property owner in Alaska, made a proposition in writing to the Senate committee on territories, of which Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, is chairman, offering to the government a royalty of 50 cents a ton of coal mined, for the lease of five thousand acres of some of the choicest lands in Alaska, in the Katalla and Matanuska districts. Such a tonnage royalty would net to the government, Mr. Ballaine claims, amounts as high as $2,000,000 per hundred acres.

This proposal contemplates a radical departure from past practices in the government's disposal of the Alaska coal lands, and it comes avowedly to do battle with another proposition embodied in a bill that has been prepared, but not yet introduced, designed to permit the sale or lease of such lands at a rate of $10 per acre. It is said that the general features of the plan have the approval of officials high in the administration and of influential members of both houses of Congress, including some of the prominent insurgents Republicans, and Delegate Wickersham, of Alaska.

Says Lobby Is at Work.

Mr. Ballaine, in his letter to Senator Beveridge, offers to enter into a bond of $1,000,000 with the government for the performance of his part of the agreement which he proposes, and he makes the charge that "other interests" have now at work in Washington a lobby, "headed by a former United States senator," in support of the bill referred to above, under whose provisions, he declares, the government would extend an unconditional guarantee to a railroad, or to railroads, which these interests purpose to build in Alaska, and would virtually donate to them, at $10 per acre, one or more tracts of 5,000 acres each to be selected by them.

Mr. Ballaine asks Congress to authorize the head of a department to be designated in the legislation, to enter into a lease with a coal company to be organized by him for 5,000 acres of Matanuska coal land, under all the provisions for regulation and against monopolistic control of prices, as stipulated in the bill recently introduced by Senator Nelson, in conformity with the recommendations of Secretary Ballinger's annual report. This coal company would pay the United States and Alaska a royalty of 50 cents a ton for the coal as mined.

World Yield Enormous Revenue.

Mr. Ballaine says that veins averaging 20 feet in thickness would yield, according to standard measurements, a total in excess of 100,000 tons each from the 5,000 acres, making a royalty of $50,000,000 for this comparatively small area.

He asks the government to provide as a condition on its part that no other coal land in Alaska shall be leased on payment of a smaller royalty and also to agree that at least half the government supply of coal shall be obtained from this company, or from a naval coaling reserve

BOARDS OF TRADE SEE NO ADVANTAGE IN OPENING GERMAN MARKETS TO OUR BEEF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Alarmed by the critical turn in the tariff controversy between the United States and Germany appeals from the chambers of commerce and boards of trade of several cities were made to the national board of trade in session here today urging that body to recommend that the state department recede from its position that American beef and cattle must be admitted to Germany.

Resolutions presented to the national body maintain there can be no advantage in insisting on a German market for American beef because the home consumption is increasing at such a rate as soon to demand all the supply.

It is pointed out that the agrarian party, in control of the reichstag, has stood for the principle that the farmers of Germany must supply its beef, and that the imperial government could not admit the American product if it would. A commission to settle the dispute is suggested.

Many delegates, bringing from their home cities demands for an investigation into the high cost of living have made that subject foremost. The national body today decided to appoint a special committee of five men to determine the reasons for present prices.

At today's session a movement was launched to create a national headquarters and legislative bureau in Washington.

RESIDENCE BLOCK THREATENED BY FIRE AS FLORIST'S BARN BURNS TO GROUND

Fire of unknown origin, fanned by the heavy wind, for a time threatened the entire neighborhood in the 500 block on East Columbia street, and nearly destroyed the stable of Frank F. Crump, a florist, at 518 Columbia street, where it originated at 8:30 o'clock last night. Fighting trouble because of the wind, Chief P. D. McMartin had his men at all points on the alert for calls and it was perhaps due to the flying start from the fire inside the station, which enabled them to make an unusually quick response to the alarm, that prevented more damage than was done.

The loss suffered by Mr. Crump will amount to probably $1,000, partly covered by insurance. Four horses stabled in the barn were saved and the loss is confined to the building, and to several vehicles, two buggies being completely destroyed and two others partially burned.

The flames were first discovered by a neighbor, who notified the family. Other people living in the neighborhood, seeing that the wind was blowing in the direction of their frame dwellings and fearing a spread of the flames, formed a volunteer fire department and worked to save the horses and vehicles, until the arrival of the fire [illegible]

Democrats Oppose Incorporation Bill.

President Taft's federal incorporation bill will meet with almost solid Democratic opposition, according to Republicans who have canvassed the situation.

The bill has not yet been perfected so as to conform to the views of the Republican members of the Senate, and even if this is accomplished, its supporters fear the attitude of the Democrats will make it exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, to pass the measure at this session.

Attorney General Wickersham is still at work on the draft of a measure, but the indications are that it will not be ready for presentation by Senator Clark, chairman of the judiciary committee, this week.

Beef Trust Investigation.

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—Enght subpoenas were issued today and will be served tomorrow on witnesses to appear before the federal grand jury in the government's investigation of the so-called beef trust. By tomorrow afternoon, it is expected, the government's forces formally will have begun its inquiry into the charges that the dressed meat industry of the country is controlled by practically one price-fixing company. Before the investigation is completed everyone connected with the packing houses in Chicago and elsewhere, who can throw any light on the subject, is to be called.

Other organizations of the so-called "beef trust" than the National Packing company may be included in the federal grand jury investigation according to a report current about the federal building today.

Blizzard in Northwest.

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo., Jan. 26.—Northwest Colorado is in the grip of the worst blizzard of the season. The mercury dropped 30 degrees in less than an hour. Snow is falling at 10 o'clock and a few hours later the wind started to blow at terrible velocity, sweeping everything before it. No range stock is suffering, however, from the sudden storm as there is plenty of food and provisions were taken for a change in

EDITED BY BRUCE A. GUSTIN

"MY LORD" LATEST TITLE OF JIMMA DA JEFF, HEAVYWEIGHT PUGILIST

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—"Lord Jeffries" if you please.

Pugilism was raised another peg in the social world yesterday when the report, well substantiated, was spread that James J. Jeffries is a direct descendant of Lord Jeffrey who died in the tower of London. Now let the canting critics take the seat usually reserved for smokers.

According to a careful study of history and heraldry, Lord Jeffrey, a judge, had charge of the court after the battle of Sedgemoor in 1685 when 320 executions were ordered and carried through. A London journal says that this noble had seven sons, six of whom were enthusiastic Jacobites. They escaped to Virginia after the rebellion, and to one of these Jeffries traces his ancestors.

"His Lordship," who is at Ogden at present "treading the boards" is pressing to uphold the championship of the white race. His distinguished ancestor was the champion hanging judge of the world. Evidently the Jeffs are champions all the way down.

Just imagine a smart hotel clerk refusing Jeffries permission to rent a room! Can't you see him wilt up and sink away when J. J. J. shouts, "Cawnt a British Lohd stow away his luggage in this blooming inn, clerk?"

It is difficult to estimate what the latest announcement will have on the coming fight. Whether he will call off the fight with Johnson and hike over to England to claim the ancestral hall is at present a matter of conjecture. It is also unknown at the present day if he will go back to the old name of Jeffrey or keep the more plebeian handle of Jeffries until he can with perfect safety enter into his place in the house of lords and become a lawmaker.

According to reports from Ogden "Lord Jeff" refused to be quoted on the budget crisis in England, but said that he might be prevailed upon to campaign for a cabinet job before the year ended.

TWO TRACK RECORDS ARE MADE AT MONCRIEF

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 25. Spirited racing was very much in evidence at Moncrief park today, with a race for gentlemen riders the outstanding feature. Tommy Wright of Baltimore gathered in this event, defeating the odds on choice, Bon Double. Two track records were made, Pantoufle running the six furlongs in 1:13 flat, while Royal Onyx negotiated the five and one-half furlongs in 1:07 1-5.

At Juarez.

JUAREZ, Mexico, Jan. 25.—Knight Deck, at 13 to 5, admirably ridden by Shilling, won the one-mile handicap, the feature of the card at Terrazas park today. Orbicular and Oroville were picked as the best, but the daring ride of Shilling landed his mount a winner by a nose. Six favorites were defeated.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 25.—Charles K. Hamilton, in an exhibition flight with a Curtiss biplane here today, had a narrow escape from falling into the ocean with his machine. As he started out over the ocean, it was noticed that the water tank was leaking from his radiator. A minute later spectators saw him circling low over the water. He turned his machine and, with the wind at his back, raced for the shore, and came down just beyond the surf line. Hamilton explained that water got into his magneto.

OUTFIELDER M'ALEESE SECURED BY DENVER

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 25.—John McAleese, outfielder with the St. Louis American league team last season, was released today to Denver, in the Western league.

BALDWIN BEATS MORAN

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—Matty Baldwin of Charlestown won the decision over Owen Moran of England at the end of 12 rounds of a close fight here tonight. Baldwin roughed it through the early part of the bout, and did some heavy hitting, while Moran proved the cleverer in blocking and clean hitting.

We found the "native son" objection quite as strong in Alameda as in San Francisco, but we are not assuming to tell Jack Gleason anything about that.

RULES COMMITTEE IS CALLED DOWN BY SCORERS

PITTSBURG, Jan. 25.—Two schedules, one for a 154 game and another for the 168-game playing season, will be submitted to the National league in New York next month. This was settled by the schedule committee tonight, although its labors have not yet been concluded.

Official scorers here entered strong protests against the wild pitch and passed ball ruling, under the revised rules, and the committee met today and rescinded it. It was pointed out that the battery men handled the ball scores of times more than other players on the team without getting any credit for perfect work, and that it would be unjust to charge them with fielding errors for occasional slips.

OFFICIAL ALMANAC PUBLISHED

Spalding's Official Athletic Almanac for 1910 has just been published. This is the seventeenth year that James E. Sullivan has edited the Official Amateur Athletic Almanac. This year's book contains hundreds of interesting pictures, including the leading athletic teams of America, as well as the American and world's champions.

Special attention has been given to illustrating the far west this year, and many pages of pictures are reproduced of scenes at the A. A. U. championships held at Seattle last August. The amateur records and statistics of the year's doings in the department of track and field sports, as well as swimming, are very complete. The winners of all American championship events, as well as sectional championship events, are given, and the college world, as well as the scholastic world, has received a lot of attention. All of the important dual meets of 1909 are recorded in the book.

The almanac is very interesting from a foreign athletic standpoint, containing all amateur records of nearly all foreign countries that encourage athletic competition. The first international meeting of 1905, with winners, is given, as well as all dual meets between Oxford and Cambridge vs. Harvard and Yale since the beginning of international competition.

The almanac will be sent to any address in the United States or Canada by the publishers, the American Sports Publishing Company, 21 Warren Street, New York, postpaid, upon receipt of 10 cents.

COLORADO LABOR INDORSES BOYCOTT

STATE FEDERATION JOINS ANTIMEAT CRUSADE.

50,000 Men Expected to Become Vegetarians Today—Investigation of High Prices.

DENVER, Jan. 25.—"Whereas, the price of meat has soared far beyond the reach of the laboring man; resolved, that we, the individuals of organized labor in Colorado, refrain from eating meat until the price thereof centers somewhere near what it should be."

This is the substance of resolutions passed today by the Colorado State Federation of Labor.

Beginning tomorrow 50,000 working men in Colorado, it is estimated, will be on the vegetable wagon. Local meat dealers, however, profess to be not alarmed and assert that they are doing better than a normal business in the sale of meats. A few markets in this city are advertising reduced prices but generally there is no reduction in price of the better cuts of meat.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Aside from an intimate discussion of the American hen and her products, the feature of today's inquiry into high food prices by a house committee was the statement of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, that sinister influences had accomplished the repeal of the provision of law relating to enforcing efficiency in cold storage of food products.

Dr. Wiley said the elimination of the appropriation for this work had greatly hampered his department in protecting the public from deleterious food products.

In reply to questions, Dr. Wiley stated he was sure the cold storage people themselves had had nothing to do with it, and, of course, the consumer was innocent. The appropriation was omitted last year.

Representative Martin of South Dakota introduced in the House today a joint resolution providing for the appointment of a special committee to consist of six senators and six representatives to investigate the present cost of living and the causes of the alleged increase in the price of common necessities of life during recent years.

SHARON SPRINGS FORGER CONVICTED AT DENVER

DENVER, Jan. 25.—George Plante, the young Sharon Springs, Kan., man tried in the criminal court on the charge of trying to obtain money on a forged telegram, was found guilty today.

BENNETT DEFENDS IMMIGRATION BOARD

ANSWERS CHARGE OF JUNKETING IN HOUSE.

Says Information Given Macon Was False.—Bureau of Mines Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Declaring that James A. Patten, secretary of the Immigration Restriction league, had told a "wicked, cruel, deliberate and malicious lie," when he gave Representative Macon of Arkansas the information which the latter based his speech yesterday, Representative Bennett made a vigorous defense of the immigration commission, of which he is a member, in the House today.

"The statements of the gentleman from Arkansas require an instant, full and complete retraction," shouted Mr. Bennett, after he had explained in detail the work of the commission, its trip abroad in 1907, which Mr. Macon had termed a "junket," and the results it had accomplished.

Mr. Macon met Mr. Bennett's demands with a sharp reply.

"I am not going to accept what the gentleman from New York has said to this House as gospel," explained Mr. Macon. "It is a question of veracity and one of these gentleman has as much credence on the part of the House as the other until one or the other shows himself to be a liar and the other shows himself to be a saint and the gentleman from New York is not a saint."

Mr. Macon admitted that Mr. Patten was his informant. Mr. Macon explained that Mr. Patten was a son-in-law of a deceased member of the commission and was in a position to know.

"I am not here to take back any part of my statement that the trip abroad was a junket, as I understood a junket," exclaimed Mr. Macon.

Thus the incident was closed without Mr. Macon having receded from his position.

Bennett Denies Macon's Charges.

Mr. Bennett made a general denial of the charges voiced by Mr. Macon and asserted that the member from Arkansas had made them without taking the trouble to ascertain if they were true. He said the commission had spent only $12,000 of the people's money on their trip of investigation abroad, but had gone down into their own pockets for more than that amount rather than charge to their expense accounts all that they had spent.

During the four months the commission was in Europe, he said, he had very little time to devote to sightseeing.

"I went through Rome without seeing St. Peters or the Appian way," declared Mr. Bennett, and added that he had made but two flying trips to Paris, and in each instance had left by the next train.

When Mr. Bennett asserted that William R. Wheeler had given up a $10,000 position to accept one for $7,500 with the commission, Mr. Macon, incredulous, interrupted to say that if he had done that he would regard himself as either "a knave or a fool."

"I have no objection to the gentleman's characterization of himself," was Mr. Bennett's retort.

Mr. Bennett said the immigration commission had accomplished much good since it was created, having broken up the "white slave traffic," taken steps to exclude alien criminals, and greatly improved steerage conditions on immigrant ships.

Bureau of Mines Bill Passed.

The House today passed a bill to create a bureau of mines in the department of the interior. The measure will not go into effect before July 1, 1910. It directs the secretary of the interior "to foster, promote and develop the mining industries of the United States and to investigate methods of mining and possible improvements for carrying on mining operations."

After a brief discussion the Senate passed the fortifications appropriation bill carrying $5,821,000. Some time was devoted to consideration of a bill creating a new national forest in Montana, but no action thereon was taken.

Postal saving banks bills were taken up today by the Senate committee on postoffices and postroads. Responding to the wish of President Taft, expressed by Senators Penrose, Crane and Carter, members of the postoffice committee, the subject has been undertaken with a determination to report a bill at an early date.

BANK IS SUSPENDED

Vests Record Day's Run, but Fails to Make Settlement at Clearing House.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 25.—The United States Banking company was tonight suspended from the clearing house upon its failure to make a settlement of today's business. By a special arrangement, the bank was given until 9:30 tomorrow morning to make good its deficit, which is said to amount to 400,000 pesos.

An official of the bank tonight admitted that the Bank of Montreal had telegraphed from its Canadian headquarters to its branch here, giving instructions not to advance any further funds to the United States Banking company.

M. Elsaser, vice president of the United States Banking company, said that it was doubtful if the bank would open its doors tomorrow.

The run, which began yesterday afternoon, continued today. From 10 o'clock in the morning until 4:30 this afternoon, except for a lull of an hour at midday, five paying tellers were kept busy.

The bank honored every check, and it is estimated that fully 2,000,000 pesos were withdrawn.

George I. Ham, formerly president of the United States Banking company, and who, until he turned over to the institution practically all of his possessions, was the heaviest stockholder, was not at the sanitarium where yesterday he was reported to have taken refuge. He left there early today, and could not be found.

The foreign pesos on deposit with the United States Banking company are from people of every nationality represented in Mexico. Many Americans and Canadians are among them.

LIBERALS FACE DIFFICULT TASK

WILL NOT HAVE INDEPENDENT MAJORITY.

Unionists Take More Gains, but Cannot Secure Majority. Compromise Suggested.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Five hundred and sixty members of the new parliament have been elected. They are distributed as follows:

Unionists, 233; Liberals, 213; Laborites, 37; Nationalists, 72.

The announcement of Unionist gains continues with unbroken regularity. Out of 38 results declared today, the Unionists had nine gains, of which one was in Scotland and one in Ireland. Against these, the Liberals were able to get only two gains in Scotland.

Among the prominent members elected today were the Rt. Hon. Austen Chamberlain, who won for the Unionists in Worcestershire, east, and Sir A. F. Acland-Hood, the chief Unionist whip, who retained his seat for the west division of Somersetshire.

Among those defeated were Sir C. D. Rose, who failed of re-election in the eastern division of Cambridgeshire, and F. H. Newnes, the newspaper proprietor, who previously held the seat for the northern, or Basetlaw, division of Nottinghamshire for the Liberals.

The elections will continue throughout the week, but the chances of the Unionists obtaining a majority or of the Liberals securing enough seats to render them independent of the Laborites and Nationalists, have now disappeared, and it becomes a most interesting question as to how the Liberal government is going to meet the difficult task before it.

The air is full of suggestions of compromise but nothing is likely to be decided until the prime minister calls a meeting of the cabinet next week for a preliminary discussion of the terms of the royal speech for the opening of the new parliament.

Various measures are expected to be promised in the king's speech, including the veto of the house of lords. The veto question will be the first to be taken up, after the address in reply to the king's speech is disposed of.

The king will open parliament with full state ceremony on February 15. Queen Alexandra will accompany him.

PLEADS FOR DISMISSAL OF PANAMA LIBEL CASE

Attorney Nicoll on Behalf of the "World" Argues Against Jurisdiction of U. S. Court.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—"James Buchanan was a pretty good lawyer, a much better lawyer than President," said Judge Hough in the United States district court today in commenting upon the argument of De Lancey Nicoll, counsel for the defense in the Panama libel case. Mr. Nicoll's motion was to dismiss the indictment charging the New York World with criminal libel against President Taft, Theodore Roosevelt and others in connection with the purchase of the Panama canal.

In supporting his motion, Mr. Nicoll rehearsed the history of libel prosecutions from colonial times down to the present, quoting President Buchanan as authority for his contention that Congress had no right to pass a libel law and citing the classic case in which Thomas Jefferson appeared as complainant and Alexander Hamilton as counsel. The following five counts were his basis of argument:

1—The court has no jurisdiction because there is no United States statute covering the case.

2—The act of 1898 does not apply as disclosed by the proceedings.

3—If the act of 1898 can be construed as applying, then the act is unconstitutional.

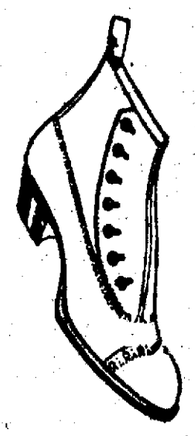

4—The offense charged in the indictment, if there was an offense, was committed in the state of New York and is punishable under the laws of that state.

5—The defendant, as a corporation, is incapable of being charged with the offense set forth in the indictment.

Mr. Nicoll had not completed his argument when court adjourned until tomorrow.

District Attorney Wise outlined the points he intends to prove and said he would show that the alleged libelous articles were circulated by the World in federal jurisdiction at West Point and in this city.

The foreign population of Morocco is divided into the following classes, in order of their preponderance: Spanish speaking, including Jews, 5,000; French speaking, 2,000; English speaking, 1,000; German speaking, 1,000; others, 2,000.

which the government may establish and itself operate in the Matanuska district, shipping the product to Seward, at rates to be fixed by the interstate commerce commission, over a railroad, the plans for the construction of which he outlined.

This railroad, approximately one thousand miles in all, is proposed to run from the Pacific coast at Seward through the interior valleys to the more strategic points on the navigable rivers.

So much as may be needed from the payment of the royalty on the 5,000 acres, the Ballaine proposal stipulates, is to constitute a fund for the guarantee of the payment of the interest on the bonds of the railroad company, which, Mr. Ballaine agrees, shall be organized upon lines approved by the head of a department to be designated by Congress.

Should any of the guarantee fund from the royalty on coal be required in its early stages to pay the interest on the bonds of the railroad, the fund is to be reimbursed out of the subsequent earnings of the road.

Mr. Ballaine tonight quoted the United States geological survey as stating in one of its recent reports that there are 16,000,000,000 tons of coal in sight in the known coal areas of Alaska and probably at least as much again in regions yet unexplored and he pointed out that the leasing of these areas on a royalty basis such as he was offering for an area of only 5,000 acres, would ultimately bring to the government a net revenue from that source exceeding $8,000,000,000.

This demand bears the date of January 20, but it became public only tonight.

GIRL BADLY INJURED WHEN ON JOY RIDE

DENVER, Jan. 25.—A 10-minute joy ride during the recess of the Brownlee collegiate school, where she is a pupil, will probably cost Ruth Weaver, 18 years old, her life. A crowd of school girls, headed by Helene Hutchins, jumped into the automobile owned by Miss Hutchins' family and persuaded the chauffeur, William Hobler, to take them for a ride. Rounding the corner at East Fourteenth and Vine streets, Hobler lost control of the machine and struck a telephone post, throwing Miss Weaver against the post and mangling her frightfully. Grace Newkirk was slightly injured.

LEWIS FACTION BEATEN IN MINERS' CONVENTION

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 25.—A controversy that cost the United Mine Workers of America $10,000 ended in the convention of the organization tonight with a ballot to determine whether the delegates from nine local unions in central Pennsylvania district should be seated. It is estimated the expense of the convention is $7,500 a day, and a day and a half was devoted to debate and voting on the question. The decision will be announced in the convention tomorrow.

President Thomas L. Lewis and the credentials committee maintained that the delegates were in good standing with the national organization and should have seats in the convention. The anti-Lewis faction led the opposition on the grounds that the nine unions had refused to pay an assessment levied by the district administration. President Lewis held that the assessment was unconstitutional.

An aye and nay vote was reached late today and resulted in 524 against seating the delegates to 451 in their favor. A roll call was demanded by the Lewis party. The roll call occupied four hours.

Lewis' enemies were violent in their denunciation of the calling of the roll. They charged Lewis with uselessly obstructing the convention and piling expenses on "the men at home."

"It is an outrage" shouted Duncan McDonald, president of the Illinois district. President Lewis retorted that a sufficient number of the delegates had demanded the roll call.

American Employes on Mexican Railroads Demand Employment of Competent Workmen.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 25.—The demand made upon the management of the National railways of Mexico by the American engineers and conductors was made known today. It is, in a word, that employes retained shall be competent to the end that danger to train crews and incidentally to the public may be eliminated as far as possible.

The men have asked this at least 50 per cent of the engineers and conductors to be hired in the future shall have had actual experience in the line of the duties they are to perform.

The question of nationality is said not to have figured in the negotiations.

The advisability of the employes resigning in a body is thought to be under consideration as the railway managers are believed to have refused to comply with the terms proposed.

WIRELESS STATION IS PLANNED FOR SPRINGS

Would Place This City on Coast to Coast Telephone and Telegraph System.

If plans under way are successful, Colorado Springs, in the near future, will have one of the main stations on a wireless telephone and telegraph system to extend from coast to coast. Holly G. Armstrong of this city, state agent for the Collins Wireless Telephone company, which is one of the companies active in the formation of the proposed new system, yesterday said that he intends to secure a station for this city, although one here is not absolutely necessary, as a station will also be established in Denver.

The system will be constructed under one management, formed by a merger of old companies into a new organization, known as the Continental Wireless Telephone and Telegraph company. It includes the following companies: The Collins Wireless Telephone company of New York, which was first to attract attention in this field; the Pacific Wireless Telegraph company, which operates stations on the Pacific coast from Los Angeles to Victoria, B. C., and the Clark Wireless Telegraph and Telephone company, which covers the territory of the great lakes.

It is understood that the new company has stations completed in Chicago, Milwaukee, New York and Philadelphia, and that arrangements have been made for stations in Cincinnati and Pittsburg, to connect with Chicago and Milwaukee. Besides these, stations will be erected at St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver, Colorado Springs and Salt Lake City, thus completing the circuit from coast to coast.

One of the first moves will be the establishment of a connection between New York and the Atlantic wireless stations out at sea, so that passengers on all incoming boats may communicate direct with their offices, homes or hotels, 24 hours ahead of their arrival in New York.

It is understood that stockholders in the old companies were allowed to exchange their stock for that in the new company.

ITALIAN HAS TROUBLE

Put Off Two Trains, He Fears Death When Police Try to Aid Him at Station.

Put off of two trains because his ticket read a different way from that which he was trying to go, and fearing an attempt was being made on his life, Peter Mussatta, an Italian, was picked up at the Santa Fe station last night at 7:30 o'clock by Patrolman Schisler and put on board the 10:20 o'clock Santa Fe train for New Mexico.

Mussatta had an Oregon Short Line ticket to a small town in New Mexico. He arrived here from Denver yesterday morning and by mistake got on an eastbound Rock Island train. He was put off the train at Falcon where he waited around until evening, when he boarded a Colorado & Southern train for this city. When he arrived here he refused to get off the car, protesting that he wanted to go to his friends in New Mexico. At police headquarters he broke down and sobbed like a child, saying that he was afraid they were going to kill him. His ticket was examined and an officer saw him aboard the right train.

HOUSE OF COMMONS IS VOICE OF PEOPLE

ENGLISH ELECTION IS FREE FROM CORRUPTION.

System Is Cumbersome, but Maintains Purity and Dignity of the Ballot.

VII—THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.
By Frederic J. Haskin.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—It is peculiarly an English anomaly that the British parliament should consist of one chamber which is the last on earth to recognize a hereditary right to legislate, and another chamber which is the most truly responsible to public opinion of all the legislatures in the world. The house of commons is not an ideally democratic institution, but it is most sensitive to the public will, and it is chosen under conditions of political purity not approached in any other country.

The suffrage in England is not what Americans would consider democratic, since a complicated system of property qualifications, varying in different sections, is imposed; and since land holders may vote in every constituency where they own property. The limited suffrage which shuts out the very poor and the plural suffrage which gives the very rich many votes, as well as the fact that the constituencies are arranged without due regard to population, constitute the chief faults of the British parliamentary electoral system.

But the corruption and indecent politics which disgraces the elections in many other countries, and in many parts of the United States, is almost entirely unknown here. This purity of elections is secured by what is known as the corrupt practices act, an outgrowth of the reform bill of 1832, which was placed on the statute books in 1883 and which has been made even more stringent by subsequent amendments. The machinery by which the British house of commons is elected differs altogether from the political and electoral machinery of the United States, but the means taken to prevent corruption might be employed even in America.

Election Machinery.

The 670 members of the house of commons are elected from constituencies of various population—counties, boroughs, cities and universities. When a parliament dissolves by limitation at the expiration of seven years, or when a dissolution is brought about by the death of the sovereign or by some extraordinary political crisis in which an "appeal to the country" forces an election, the queer mixture of ancient usage and modern methods composing the British election system is set to work.

The king issues a proclamation on the day the ministry tells him to do so; ordering writs for the election of a new parliament, and fixing a day for the meeting of the new legislature. All the essentials are attended to by the ministry, but the proclamation declares solemnly that the king has decided he needs a new parliament, that he has managed the whole business on his own volition. When this proclamation is signed, writs are immediately dispatched to the sheriffs, mayors and returning officers who are to hold the elections in the various constituencies.

Candidates have been actively engaged in the campaign for several weeks, usually, when the writs are issued, but they are technically known as "prospective candidates." A member of parliament does not have to live in the constituency which he represents, and, indeed, the majority of the members "sit" for some district where they do not reside. Nevertheless, there is more and more talk about "carpetbaggers" in England all the time, that phrase having been borrowed from America. The political party organization in the United States, by which precinct committees build up to the all-powerful state and national committees, is wholly unknown here. English politicians have nothing but scorn for the American system, which, they say, binds the local committee as a slave to the national organization. Yet in England the local committees ask the national committee to select a candidate for them! Imagine the Democratic congressional committee of the Third district of Arkansas asking a national committee for a congressional candidate, and then tamely accepting an antediluvian New Hampshire Democrat brought out of the museum for that purpose. That is what the English politicians call local freedom of party action.

How Nominations Are Made.

When the writs are issued each sheriff of a county, mayor of a borough, or returning officer of a division, appoints a day for nominations and another day for polling. This may be any time after five days and before 20 days from the time of receiving the writ. Each candidate must be nominated by a proposer, a seconder and eight assentors, all, 10 of whom must be registered voters in the constituency. On the day of the nominations a meeting is held attended by the candidates. The sheriff or returning officer asks for nomination. If only one name is presented, and the nomination is in proper form, the sheriff declares that nominee to be duly elected a member of parliament, in this fashion; Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, being unopposed, was elected the first member of the new parliament, which will sit on February 15.

But if there is more than one candidate the sheriff asks for a show of hands, and then the candidates demand a poll. The poll is ordered for the day previously agreed upon and announced. Within one hour after the nominations the candidates must deposit with the sheriff a sum, varying from $500 to $5,000, according to the size of the constituency, to secure the payment of the expenses of holding the election. All the expenses must be paid by the candidates on a bill presented by the sheriff or other returning officer. On the day these nominations are made the political party committees suspend activities and by formal resolution declare themselves nonexistent. After the election they are reorganized.

But the successful candidate's seat is not assured. He is elected and may take his seat, but if every provision of the corrupt practices act has not been met, then a petition may be started wherein a number of electors may allege violations of the act. If the allegations are substantiated, the member is unseated and is considered incapable of holding any office for the term of seven years, and he may be further fined or punished.

Expenditures Limited.

The corrupt practices act limits the amount of money a candidate may spend in his campaign, limits specifically the things for which this money may be spent and makes the candidate responsible not only for his own acts, but for those of his agents and supporters. Each candidate under the law is required to appoint an election agent, and all campaign expenses must be paid through this agent. Expenses may range from $1,750 to $9,000 according to the population and area of the constituency.

All claims for election expenses must be made within thirty-five days. The fourteen days after the election, all such claims as allowed by a court must be paid within twenty-eight days, and full and complete public returns must be made within thirty-five days. The failure to meet any of these requirements makes the election void. The candidate is responsible for his duly appointed agent and for all other supporters who may be working in his behalf as bona fide agents, whether with or without the knowledge of the candidate.

Bribery Voids Election.

Any bribery by any agent voids the election, and bribery is defined as the giving or promising to give, whether the promise is kept or broken, of any money, or any thing worth money, or any treat of food or drink, or any employment or promise of employment, or any pay for loss of time while voting. Thus a supporter of a candidate may, without the candidate's knowledge and against his express orders, treat another man to a glass of beer in exchange for a vote. That act would void the election and unseat the member. Employers are prohibited, under heavy penalties, from influencing the votes of their employes, and the beneficiary of such undue influence loses his seat.

This law, of course, is not obeyed to the letter, but it is a constant reminder to candidates and their agents to be very, very careful. The law prohibits the hiring of bands of music, and therefore English political speakings are without the inspiration of the brass music. The law prohibits the purchase or giving away badges of distinction. An enthusiastic party man at a recent election printed, at his own expense, some cards to be worn in hats, bearing the name of the party candidate for parliament. The expense altogether was ten dollars and the candidate knew nothing about it. But the law had been broken in his behalf, and he lost his seat in parliament.

Election expenses incurred by the party for party purposes, and not in the interest of any particular candidate, do not come under the law. A great deal of money is spent in this way, and there is some corruption. A district may be flooded with free beer and free coal, as is often done in London, by "charitable organizations" with political intent.

The result of all this machinery is that the house of commons is elected by a system so nearly free from corruption that no taint lies on the title of the house to represent the will of the electors. Cumbersome as it is, it is a far better election system than any other that has been devised for the maintenance of the purity and dignity of the ballot. The house of commons comes to London as the voice of the people.

WHAT IS THE MAXILLARY METHOD IN DENTISTRY?

It is the modern and scientific method of replacing missing teeth and is far superior to the ordinary partial plate and bridge. The Maxillary method replaces missing teeth so perfectly that they look natural, feel natural and perform all the functions of the natural teeth. If you have a few teeth left we can make you a perfect set. If you are interested we will be glad to more fully explain this method to you.

We are also making a specialty of the treatment of pyorrhea, the disease that destroys the teeth and gums. This disease may be detected by sore and bleeding gums and as it becomes more advanced the teeth loosen and if allowed to continue will result in the loss of the teeth. We are successfully treating this disease and in furnish you with conclusive evidence that we do permanently cure pyorrhea. ARE SECRETLY WED

Second Romance to Light With Marriage of Miss Layane MacManus and Erdman Debler.

Slipping away from the State Normal school at Greeley, Miss Layane MacManus came to this city last Saturday and was secretly married to Erdman Debler, a civil engineer in the employ of the Denver Irrigation company, whom she met in Berlin two years ago. Upon her return from a tour of the world, three months ago, Mr. Debler appeared on the scene and pressed his suit with successful results.

Another romance in connection with the trip abroad of Miss MacManus also has come to light. Miss Adelaide MacManus, when the family left Denver, stopped off at Chicago and married Alexander Webber, a wealthy Casper, Wyo., man. They kept the news of the marriage secret until a year later, when the MacManus party returned to New York and found Webber waiting at the dock.

FEAR COUNTERFEITER

Colorado Springs Banks Warned to Lookout for Man Operating in Denver.

Colorado Springs banks are on the lookout for counterfeit silver dollars which have been circulated in Denver recently. These dollars are said to be almost perfect specimens and have been accepted without hesitation by almost every one whom they have been offered. Thus far the counterfeiter has escaped detection but secret service men are camping on his trail. He is expected here, if Denver becomes too hot for him. Most of the counterfeit coins have been passed on Denver street cars.

RANGES ARE STREWN WITH DEAD CATTLE

Heavy Losses in South Park and on West Slope Reported to State Humane Society.

DENVER, Jan. 25—Notwithstanding specific orders from Governor Shafroth directing the state board of stock inspection to care for the range cattle, reports continue to come in showing that thousands of head of stock are dead and dying.

Secretary E. K. Whitehead of the State Humane society has received four letters from correspondents in western Colorado, all containing information that the spring will find the range strewn with the carcasses of dead cattle.

One man wrote that he had seen hundreds of head down on the range between Park and Spinney and he added that in the whole south park not enough will survive to start a good sized herd. He had talked with cattle buyers and they recounted similar conditions prevailing all through that country.

At Davis, six miles from Newcastle, it was reported that cattle were dying in the highways.

From Glenwood report comes that bunches of cattle are down between Debeque and Colbran.

It is charged that the stock investors pay no attention to the conditions and make no effort to compel the owners to provide for their stock.

THE BEEF TRUST PROSECUTION.

HOWEVER sympathetic one may feel with anti-trust prosecutions, the slender results achieved in this direction by the Government in the past make it hard to work up much enthusiasm. The big trusts have a habit of remaining decidedly alive even after they are supposed to be dead. Though officially dissolved they manage to continue doing business at the old stand—witness the case of the Northern Securities company.

Soon after that famous merger was formed about ten years ago the Government camped on its trail. The company was fought and beaten in the Federal Circuit Court and the case went to the Supreme Court on appeal. After long delay a decision was handed down which presumably was to put the company out of business. And in one sense it did. The Northern Securities Company dissolved into thin air but its component parts, those "parallel and competing lines" whose joint ownership was held to be inimical to the public welfare, have continued to this day to be owned and operated just as they were when the Supreme Court dealt them its much-heralded death blow.

The doom of the Standard Oil Company is supposed to be impending. A few weeks ago the Federal Circuit Court ordered its dissolution, and there is scarcely a doubt that the decision will be sustained by the Supreme Court. The assertion has been published that already the clever attorneys for the Oil Trust are anticipating the decision by perfecting elaborate plans for the future conduct of the business in a way that will have precisely the same effect but under a different guise.

If this happens and it appears as certain as anything in the future can be what benefits, pray, will the downtrodden public derive from all the hullaballoo that has been stirred up against the Standard Oil Company these last ten years? Where do the dear people come in? How much did the population of the northwestern states benefit by the vaunted dissolution of the Northern Securities Company? Will the general public benefit by lower prices of petroleum products, or will a single independent oil producer be the gainer by fairer competition after the United States Supreme Court has read the burial service over the Standard Oil Company?

Keeping these and related events in mind it is not so easy for even the most confirmed enemy of the trusts to regard the present attack on the Beef Trust as proof positive that cheaper meat is in sight. Maybe meat will get cheaper and maybe it will not, but if it does the [illegible] will be something else than the government prosecution of the packers. Those gentlemen have already demonstrated that they have a grip on the business strong enough to protect themselves at all times. Somehow they manage to put the loss on the other fellow. Does the Government enact a strict meat inspection law? The packers charge the cost to the stockmen at one end of the line and to the consumer at the other, and as the Government itself pays the bill the only effect on the packers is to give them an additional double profit. Do the people rise in revolt against the high cost of living and start a boycott against meat? The packers merely stop buying until the dull market forces the stockmen to sell at any price; then they buy at their own figure.

We do not mean that the Government should make no effort to curb the trusts, indeed, there is greater need for such effort now than ever before. When Chicago beef sells at retail in London at a lower price than in Chicago as is now the case—the time for elaborate argument on this point is past. But it is perfectly apparent that a different sort of anti-trust law will have to be enacted before we can expect such prosecutions to be really effective. Fighting the Oil Trust or the Beef Trust with the Sherman law is like bombarding a modern battleship with a popgun. It makes a noise but it does not produce results.

BROOMS AT A DOLLAR PER.

ALONG with the interesting news that the prices of flour, shoes, clothing, and other necessities of life are about to be raised again, comes the significant announcement that the humble broom, that indispensable article of household economy, will soon be unpurchasable at less than a dollar apiece. At least, that is the intimation given by the broom manufacturers.

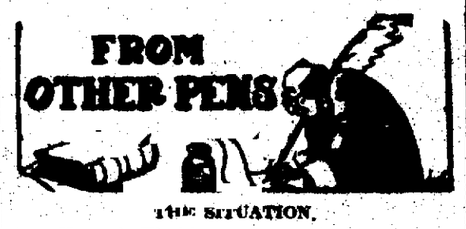

Brooms are made from broom corn, which is grown in a very limited territory in the United States in Oklahoma, Missouri, and Texas. This year hot winds in Oklahoma destroyed two-thirds of the crop, so there will be only 16,000 tons of broom corn on the market. Since the normal consumption of broom corn averages 50,000 tons, a shortage is imminent.

With regard to the entire broom corn situation a wholesale broom company has sent this statement to its customers: "Broom corn production began on the decrease for the last two years because of the high prices which can be obtained for it with less risk and labor, such as [illegible] wheat, corn etc. The prices these latter products have reached have made it necessary for the manufacturer to pay the farmer, for broom corn, a price which will compare favorably with the prices he can get for the more common soil products. Having had to pay this price the manufacturer must charge more for his brooms to get the advance he has paid the farmers."

One very obvious generalization can be drawn from this blunt statement of the manufacturer,—namely, that the consumer, in any event, pays the price. It is equally obvious that the broom corn shortage of the present year is due largely, to crop failure. But the candid remarks of the broom manufacturer have a further and more important bearing. They clearly exemplify the general theory that an upward tendency in prices of staples causes a like increase in the cost of comparatively less important commodities.

The broom makers are forced to pay the farmers a greater price for the product because, if they did not, the farmer would turn his energies to raising "those other commodities such as wheat, corn, etc., which he can raise with less risk and labor," since the farmer is, naturally, going to raise whatever he can get the most money for. Therefore, the raising of the price of flour, by the flour trust, or of corn, by the corn trust, means that sooner or later, by pressure on the farmers in the way mentioned, prices of many other commodities will increase.

Just what the entire results of this economic tendency will be, no one has as yet ventured to predict, but the fact remains that housewives must not only begin to economize on their use of meat and flour, but must also be careful of the wear and tear which they give their brooms on sweeping day, and of the destructive scrubbing to which they daily subject their pans and kettles.

THE SITUATION.

From Harper's Weekly.

And now what is all this fuss about? There is hardly any dispute as to Mr. Pinchot's great usefulness to the country or as to the value of the reservation service which he most of all has planned and carried out. As officer of the agricultural department he has been able to get along with his own chief, but not with the chief of the department of the interior, with whom also it was necessary that he should co-operate. A man amply qualified by character and distinction to be himself a member of the cabinet, he has had to be in effect subordinate to two secretaries, one of them not acceptable to him in spirit, method, or in purpose so far as understood. That was unfortunate. At the same time it was the misfortune of Mr. Pinchot and not the fault of Mr. Taft. There may be a man who could have made Glavis, Ballinger, Pinchot, and Wilson work together for good, just as there may be men who could have made Mr. Knox see a point in Mr. Crane but Mr. Taft has not been able to do it.

COST OF WATER MAINS.

From Fire and Water Engineering.

A system of laying water mains in vogue in Seattle, Wash., might fairly commend itself to other municipalities, and water companies, where the water-works system is in course of development. Allowing that it requires a six-inch main to serve any street with water and that the supply of water on any thoroughfare is a direct benefit to abutting property, the city requires property owners to pay the entire cost of laying a main of six inches diameter or smaller. Where a main of larger size is to be laid the property pays an amount equivalent to a six-inch main and the city pays the rest. When this plan was first adopted, there was some opposition offered on the part of real estate men and others interested in "new developments," who realized that the end was in sight of thir former system of obtaining water mains for their enterprises, to the manifest improvement in value of their holdings, at the expense of the water-taxpayers at large, by means of the exercise of political or any other influence. Looking at the matter from a business standpoint, its equity is evident. People who are not water consumers, but who expect municipal fire protection, under this system contribute, something towards its provision, while at the same time, the water supply system is extended at the cost of those who are directly benefited by the extensions, in place of the rate being raised on all alike, to pay for these new installations.

THE WORST OF CHEATING UNCLE SAM.

From Harper's Weekly.

"Ten more ousted by Loeb general housecleaning is now finished, he says." So the headlines in an afternoon paper last week. The ten dropped were assistant weighers dismissed from the customs service. Eighty-three custom-house employees have been dismissed, at this writing, since the work of cleaning up began.

It belongs to every person who has ever tried to get through the New York custom-house without paying the duties justly due under the law, to consider what share of responsibility is his for the dismissal of these men.

The most serious side of the Sugar Trust thieveries is the wholesale demoralization of character they induced among all the persons concerned in them. The loss of money by the government can be made up, but how restore integrity to men who have lost it! The same demoralization of character among employes was the worst result of the railroad rebate system. It follows every form of secret lawbreaking, and since this effect tends to result whether the law that is broken is good or bad, the immense importance is apparent of care in legislation, so that laws even liquor laws may be not only enforceable, but fit to enforce.

And remember, travelers (ladies especially), the dismissal of those 83 custom-house men. Don't try to beat the custom-house, nor to bribe the officers. Don't buy what you can't pay duties on! That you beat the government is the least important part of your delinquency. You injure character—your own, certainly—that of the officials whom you tip. When they are thrown out of work, damaged men, you cannot escape a share of the responsibility if you tempted them.

IT ALL DEPENDS.

From the Florida Times Union.

Once upon a time Spain caught some Americans that had been shooting her soldiers in Cuba and she promptly set them against a wall to be shot. It so happened that a few Englishmen were associated with these Americans, and England demanded a trial and said they should not be shot; some of the Americans were saved by this interposition of a power. Thereupon the Englishman was hailed as a hero—the example of England was conspicuous. Time went over and Spain was denounced as cruel and all the rest of it.

In the course of time England desired to keep the Transvaal in hand as Spain had attempted to hold Cuba and it is not reported that she was particularly gentle with the Boers, though they had not been her subjects and she could not plead the rights that Spain set up. All of us had said that the worst act of Weyler was the concentration of the population in camps—England herded the population of entire men, women and children.

We have tried to do in the Philippines what Spain tried to do in Cuba, and we have adopted Spain's methods exactly—the shooting by drumhead courts, the water-cure, the concentration camps and the rest of it, so that we have not only endorsed Spain's and Weyler's policies.

Now another test comes. It is reported Zelaya has taught some Americans in Nicaragua and has done some shooting offhand. It is well to send ships to protect American interests. It is very well to call for explanations and proofs, but why should President [illegible] break off diplomatic relations with Nicaragua because two Americans have been punished for making war on Nicaragua? Because Zelaya's government represents the country, however bad or impotent that government may be. Before the government of the republic of Panama had chipped the shell we had recognised it and our marines stood over the hatching process, too; Roosevelt explained that when that government had been proclaimed it was established and it was his business to support a de facto government however it had been set up, and whatever was its purpose. Hasn't Nicaragua a de facto government? Hasn't any government the right to defend itself? In the Philippines Chinamen have been found working in collusion with "rebels" whose country we had bought; what was the fate of those Chinamen? What would we have said if China had interfered?

THE SERPENT'S TONGUE

He should be boiled in oil, or hung, the agent with the serpent's tongue. He sells me traps I do not need; he sells me books no man would read; he sold a combination fork which drives a nail or pulls a cork, with which, he said, a man might shave, or shine his shoes, or dig a grave. He should be through the transom flung, the agent with the serpent's tongue. I'm always paying hard-earned cash for patent lamps or other trash; for music racks that are no good; for toilet soap that's made of wood; for dentifrice that doesn't dent, for fountain pens not worth a cent; forevermore I'm being stung by agents with the serpent's tongue. Each time I'm stung I vow a vow: "I'm done for good with agents now; I'll buy my doodads at the store, and chain old Towser by the door, and if an agent should arrive, he will not leave the place alive." Alas! There is no dodging fate! He's laying for me at the gate; at my approach he will produce "The Life and Works of Captain Loose," or that illuminating book, "The Voyages of Dr. Cook, With Maps and Charts Which Fully Show the Places Where He Didn't Go." The lid upon him should be sprung—the agent with the serpent's tongue!

The Daily Chit-Chat

I hear the newspapers say I am dying. The charge is not true. I would not do such a thing at my time of life," said Mark Twain the other day. "My time of life" incidentally was seventy-four years and twenty-four days.

There are few things that I have read or heard lately that please me so much as that characteristically delightful utterance of America's beloved old philosopher.

It seems to me that the very best way to defer death is to defy it, to regard it, as he did, as a thing you would not dream of doing at your time of life.

And the best way to defy sickness and helplessness is to regard them as things you have no time to indulge in and still less time to think about.

In nine cases out of ten it seems to me that excessive care of oneself, excessive attempts to conserve one's energies, are the quickest roads to illness and feebleness.

This does not mean, of course, that it is good to use one's powers extravagantly and carelessly.

It simply means that to the very entrance of the valley of the shadow one should constantly be using one's powers to their fullest, that even to the end they grow by use.

Men are more or less like watches in this respect. They run better if they are kept continually wound.

To be sure, regularity of life, obedience to the laws of health, and relaxation when relaxation is needed, are necessary for the man as a regular time of winding, some care and an occasional overhauling are necessary for the watch. But he will just as surely defeat his end who attempts to prolong his life by putting a stop to his activity as he who attempts to make his watch last longer by leaving it unwound.

If a man ever fears, lest he is about to be engulfed in the foolishly self-saving feebleness of invalidism or old age, it seems to me the best motto he can take for himself is:

It is better to wear out than to rust out."

And I think in nine cases out of ten the man who does make that his motto will not do either very soon. The very spirit of his determination will probably prolong his life.

Robert Louis Stevenson says:

"It is better to lose health like a spendthrift than to waste it like a miser. It is better to live and be done with it than to die daily in the sick room. By all means begin your folio, even if the doctor does not give you a year, even if he hesitates about a month, make one brave push and see what can be accomplished in a week. It is not only in finished undertakings that we ought to honor useful labor. All who have meant good work with their whole hearts have done good work, although they may die before they have time to sign it. Every heart that has beat strongly and cheerfully has left a hopeful impulse behind it in the world and bettered the tradition of mankind."

Heartily I agree and even more heartily honor the way in which Robert Louis Stevenson lived those words.

Oyster Sauce to serve with Boiled Chicken—Boil twenty-five oysters in their own liquor for one minute, drain and wash. Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in a small saucepan to melt; do not brown; add to it two tablespoonfuls of flour; mix and add one-half of a pint of the liquor in which the chicken was boiled, and one-half of a pint of milk or cream. Stir continually until it boils; add the oysters, chopped, and half a teaspoonful of salt, quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper, and serve in a sauce boat with the chicken.

Apple Charlotte—Butter a yellow earthen dish and place around the sides and on the bottom slices of bread one inch thick. Butter them, then dip them quickly in cold water before putting them in the dish. Fill the dish with sliced apples with one cupful of sugar well mixed through, add a little grated nutmeg and one-half of a cupful of water. Now cover the top with slices of bread prepared as before, cover the whole with a lid and bake in a moderate over for about 3 hours. Let stand for thirty minutes before serving. When ready to serve loosen it from the edge of the dish, turn the serving dish over it, then turn it over, remove the dish in which it was baked. Serve with hard sauce.

RAILROADS SHOULD EDUCATE EMPLOYES

HUMAN PART OF MACHINE IS VITAL.

Interchange of Ideas Between Men and Officials Means Greater Efficiency.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—"The time will come when railroad employ for every man in the service will not mean drudgery, nor sinecure, nor accidental opportunity, but an enlightened, stimulating, highly efficient service of highest earning power, least uncertainty from accidental causes, largest freedom for individual initiative, entire self-respect, and thoroughly democratic spirit."

With this prediction J. Shirley Eaton, former statistician of the Lehigh Valley railroad, concludes a lengthy monograph for the United States bureau of education on "Education for Efficiency in Railroad Service," which Commissioner Elmer E. Brown has submitted to the secretary of the interior. In his letter of transmittal, Commissioner Brown says the subject of educational preparation for definite occupations in life, and particularly for the several trades, is under serious consideration in the United States. The relation of trade education to general education is one of the important aspects of that question. This relation was summed up by President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, in saying: "What science and practical life alike need is not narrow men, but broad men sharpened to the point."

"The advance made in the present decade in the subject of education for railroad service is very surprising to those who may not be informed," says Mr. Eaton. "Ideas of practical men on the subject are now less indefinite and conflicting. The relation between education and efficiency in railroad service is coming to be generally conceded. The large educational value of the railroad service itself is being turned to systematic practical account, and the value of educational agencies in preparing for specific industrial efficiency is better understood.

"The railroad service in the United States will shortly reach a total of 2,000,000 men. It is the largest and most highly organized example of associate effort in an epoch conspicuous for industrial and commercial concentration. Education in a broad sense must always be a large factor.

"In the course of railroad development, there was a first era, which was the era of railroad building. There was next an era of co-ordination of the railroad service and finance to the commercial and financial conditions as a whole with which the railroads were called upon to deal.

Sociological Adjustment.

"Next came the era of internal adjustment on the physical and mechanical side, perfection of the machinery cutting down grades, strengthening bridges, increasing the train unit. And now has come the era of sociological adjustment. The human part of the machine is quite as vital as the steel and wooden part in producing efficiency and so in increasing the income.

"The most practical and efficient railroad manager today is now squarely 'up against' the problem which he is attacking in one form or another, of education, of himself, his staff, the individuals in the rank and file, and the rank and file as a whole. This is the last and highest and most comprehensive stage of the function of administration. It implies, for instance, an eager, resourceful, self-respecting individualism throughout the working forces, co-ordinated with a keen appreciation of the social character of the work, which expresses itself in a loyalty not to a person or a local group, but to the income account of the railroad—nor yet to one income account, but to the aggregate of the income accounts of several years. These income accounts showing steady, healthy growth over several years, become at the same time the terms of largest service to the community, the stockholder, and the individual employe.

"A note of warning may at this time seem to be premature, but certain tendencies are already foreshadowed which should not go checked. When the railroad manager comes fully to realize how his new-found tool of education enables him to shape almost absolutely to his purposes the working body, there may arise the danger that railroad specialization in education be carried too far.

"If the railroads, when they come very generally to instruct their employes, turn their back upon the professional teacher, severely divorcing their work in subject-matter and in method form and at the same time substituting it for the work of the regular established educational agencies of the grammar school and high school grades, the result can only be what the psychologist calls "arrested development" for the learner.

"Railroads as a whole, through a representative body such as the American Railway association, should in a comprehensive way take up the matter of the education of railroad employes. As they now have committees devoted to standards of construction, maintenance, and operating practice, they should also have a standing committee of a character to command confidence, who should sedulously foster a closer relation between the railroad and educational agencies."

Mr. Eaton draws these conclusions:

"Railroad financial managements should incorporate an educational scheme as a definite part of their policy, on the ground of business prudence. Such policies should be inaugurated for periods of not less than five years, preferably ten, otherwise the money appropriated will be largely wasted.

"Railroads should extend the principles of definite apprenticeship to every department of the service, and should provide for two or more grades of apprentices in order to take account of differences in capacity and work done elsewhere, either in properly accredited schools or by experience, and leading to different grades of service.

"There should be formal provision for movement among departments under proper conditions, and the comity of railroads should be so far extended as to formally provide for some interchange of officials under special restrictions.

"In executing the policy of education announced by the directors, there should be a superintendent of education reporting directly to a higher official, such superintendent to be thoroughly informed of the educational policy of the railroad and the broad considerations on which it rests. His department should systematically recruit the employes throughout the service and certify, on request, to their records and general efficiency in the early stages of promotion.

"Efficiency should be recognized by an efficiency wage, stated distinctly apart from the seniority wage.

"Employes should be encouraged to take outside courses of instruction or experience without forfeiting their tenure, and, so far as possible, the educational department should systematically turn to account every outside educational agency by suggesting courses, uniting in co-operative courses, and recognising the work done in those courses, to the end that theory and practice be joined.

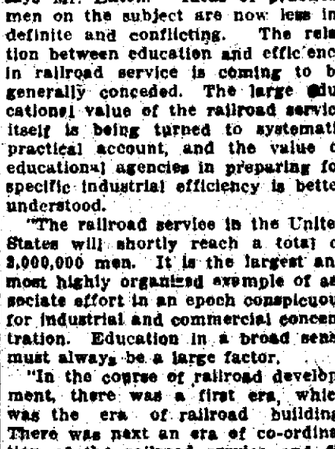

"The educational opportunities of the service should be utilized to the utmost by encouragement of perfect freedom of study and criticism and interchange of ideas concerning accidents, bad work, and all the details of practice. Annual or semiannual meetings of employes by classes of work and the preparation and circularization of papers and discussions should be a feature."

Twenty-four electric locomotives to be used in the New York tunnel extension of the Pennsylvania railroad are now being built. Each weighs 330,000 pounds, and will develop 4,000 horsepower, which is about three times as much as a giant steam locomotive.

ORE IN RUBIE MINE RUNS $62,500 TON

SILVER ABUNDANT IN CRIPPLE CREEK DISCOVERY.

Rock Will Be Submitted to State Geologist.—May Not Be Put on Exhibition.

Samples of ore, mined at a depth of 1,375 feet in the Rubie mine on Bull hill in the Cripple Creek district, and which are said to carry almost fabulous values in gold and silver, are to be submitted to the state geologist today by Herold D. Thompson, general manager of the Humphreys-Thompson syndicate. Assay tests made in the district have shown extraordinary gold and silver contents, one assay returning 3,100 ounces gold and 1,003 ounces silver to the ton, or expressed by currency, valuation, about $62 500 to the ton The mine is operated under lease by the Rubie Mining and Leasing company, one of the operating companies of the Humphreys-Thompson syndicate.

Great care is being taken at the Rubie mine to guard the find, the ore being carefully sacked underground. It is not expected by mining men that this marvelous streak will continue long

The quartz is carried in two different streaks of from one to two inches in width It resembles the petzite of Boulder county, which is stated by T. A. Rickard, the well-known mineralogist and mining expert, to have been found also in the Geneva mine on Gold hill in the Cripple Creek district.

The formation is most peculiar, resembling that of gray copper, but does not show a trace of copper, while carrying other minerals which puzzle mining men. The mining men of the district are awaiting the report of the state geologist, as they believe it will be of great value to them in future work. Should silver be found in this proportion in other ore, Cripple Creek may soon be famous for the white metal, as well as for gold.

MINERS BLAMED FOR THEIR OWN DEATH

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict—Interment Held Today at Evergreen Cemetery.

To avoid possible international complications, Coroner D. F Law yesterday conducted an investigation of the death of George Nedelchoff and Elias Spasoff, the Bulgarians who were overcome by gas and smoke in the Pike View coal mine Monday evening The coroner's jury returned a verdict as follows.

"We find that George Nedelhoff and Elias Spasoff came to their death on January 24, 1910, at the Pike View coal mine, located at Pike View Colorado, from being asphyxiated by black powder smoke, and we further find that they returned to the face of the drift before sufficient time had elapsed for the smoke to clear away from the 12 shots they had fired.

WARDEN TYNAN HERE REGARDING ROAD WORK

Confers With County Commissioners and Goes to Denver—Will Return.

To confer with the El Paso county commissioners relative to raising funds for the continuance of convict labor on the Colorado Springs-Canon City road, Warden William Tynan of the state penitentiary came to Colorado Springs yesterday morning. Nothing definite was decided upon, and Warden Tynan went to Denver in the afternoon. He will confer with the commissioners here on his way back to Canon City

County Commissioners Harry Hutchinson and J. P. Madden went to Dead Man's canon yesterday morning to inspect the convict camp. The work is progressing favorably, and it is expected that the road will be completed to this city by September or October, provided sufficient funds are raised to keep the convicts at work. The men are now working on the hardest part of the road, rock interfering greatly with their progress.

The county commissioners estimate that all work is being done three times as fast by the convicts as it would have been done by contract Red hill has already been cut, and the road through the canon will be completed in a short time.

CUT EARLY AFTER DRY FARMING CONGRESS

Chamber of Commerce Already Boosting for 1911 Convention. Much Encouragement.

While nothing definite has been done thus far, the matter of securing the 1911 Dry Farming congress for Colorado Springs has been considered by the Chamber of Commerce in this city and it is probable that an active campaign to secure the meeting will be started within a short time. Last year representatives of the local organization were sent to Billings, Mont., to secure the 1910 convention, but lost out Spokane, Wash., winning by two votes. At that time, however, assurances were given the local delegates that this city could get the 1911 convention by working for it, and, acting on this hint, the Chamber of Commerce is going to begin early and make sure of securing the next meeting.

A rival for the honor is Amarillo, Tex., but many local business men have signified their intention to support the campaign here, and it is believed this city will be successful.

C. C. Hoyt, city passenger agent for the Santa Fe railroad, yesterday received a letter from J. P. Hall, general passenger agent of the road, asking him to make inquiry in this city to learn what the business men and city officials will do in the way of contributions for the convention. "If the answer is favorable, it is probable that road will support Colorado Springs in its fight.

Colorado Springs Occupies Full-Page Editorial in February Number of the Outlook.

By means of an editorial in the February number of The Outlook, the name of Colorado Springs will be brought to the notice of people all over the world. In describing the Garden of the Gods, the writer refers to it as "one of the most striking bits of landscape in the country."

WOMEN WANT PLACE ON SCHOOL BOARD

OVERZEAL MAY LOSE THEM REPRESENTATION.

Several Candidates Mentioned for Position Made Vacant by Death.

That representatives of the various women's organizations of the city will try to get together today and agree upon a candidate or list of candidates to be recommended to the school board from which to choose a successor to the late Mrs. E. A. Sawyer is a well-founded rumor current in Colorado Springs.

So anxious are the partisans of some of the candidates for Mrs Sawyer's place on the board that they are antagonizing the supporters of all other candidates. If the squabble which is attending the efforts of the women to get together continues it is possible that the board of education will ignore all recommendations and elect a man to fill the vacancy.

It is understood that there will be a meeting today of representative women from the Woman's club, the Civic club, and other similar organizations, to see if a list of candidates can be agreed upon. This list will be submitted to the school board, each of the names being recommended by the various organizations. This may not be satisfactory to the board, for some members may be averse to making enemies of the supporters of rejected candidates.

"I think it is a shame that some of the club members can't let the school board alone," said a prominent club woman last night. "I hope that the members of the board will do their duty, and elect whoever they please to succeed Mrs Sawyer, regardless of recommendations of some trouble makers."

Among the candidates who may be recommended to the board of education are Mrs. George A. Boyd, chairman of the art and literature department of the Woman's club, and second vice president of the Civic club; Mrs. L. P. Gray, Mrs. A. L. Mowry, both prominent members of the Woman's club, and Dr. Josephine L. Pearey.

A successor is to be appointed to serve in Mrs. Sawyer's place until the school election in May, when three new members of the school board must be selected. Four years of Mrs. Sawyer's term are to be filled, and successors must be elected to Charles H. Dudley, for a term of one year, and for W. N. Burgess for a term of five years.

This camp has made a remarkable record in the last year. Next Friday night, January 28, there will be a number of candidates initiated, and all members of the Modern Woodmen are invited to attend. A special committee will be appointed at this meeting, to have charge of the arrangements for February 11.

The Foreign and Home Missionary societies of the First Methodist church, South, will be entertained this afternoon at a missionary tea by Mrs. L. H. Schoffer at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. D. Marr, 14 East Willamette avenue.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Cumberland Presbyterian church will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. J. Jerome, 309 South Wahsatch avenue.

Mrs Goddard's committee of the book carnival is asked to meet at the home of Mrs. Frank F. Castello, 632 North Nevada avenue, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The meeting of the Wisconsin association, which was to have been held tomorrow evening in room 14 Midland block, will not be held until Saturday night. A constitution and by-laws are to be adopted and other business transacted. Refreshments will be served. J. L. Shafer is president of the association, and C. C. Delts is secretary.

A special meeting of Zebulon Pike chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be held soon for the purpose of appointing a committee to draft suitable resolutions on the death of Mrs. E. A. Sawyer, who was an active member of the chapter. The meeting will probably be held the latter part of the week.

The Eastern Star Sewing circle will be entertained this afternoon by Mrs. William Richards, 729 South Tejon street.

SECRECY AT CAUCUS OF ALLEGED VICTIMS

Local and Cripple Creek Men Want to Recover Pecos Valley Investments.

Maintaining the utmost secrecy about their actions, a number of men of this city, who are alleged victims of a land drawing in the Pecos valley through O. M. Fairchild of Victor, met last night in the V. Z. Reed hose house, 19 East Las Animas street, to consider ways and means to recover their money. It is claimed that the local men involved are out something like $150,000 through the deal. Whether they will take the matter into court is not known definitely, but it is understood they have good grounds for action, and that there is a strong possibility of the whole affair being aired in the courts.

According to the story, the local men took chances on the land drawing some time ago, with the understanding that a valuable ranch was to be given to one of the subscribers. After the drawing was over, however, it was found that the ranch was not included in the lands given out, and immediately the alleged victims in this city and a number in the Cripple Creek district joined forces. The names of all concerned are being kept a secret, those interested declaring that they are afraid if their names were made public, they will show their hand to the "enemy."

MANTELL APPEARS HERE

"Act Lear? Sir, I never act Lear. I am Lear," Edwin Forrest once said to a friend who had complimented him on his performance of this great role. Robert Mantell who produced the tragedy at the Opera House last evening might well say the same. If ever this generation of playgoers has seen a real Shakespearean portrayal Robert Mantell's King Lear is it.

On seeing the Mantell production of "King Lear," one is convinced over again of the undoubted supremacy of Shakespeare in the realm of playwriting. To many and, alas, to the majority of modern playgoers, Shakespeare means dull, dry and uninteresting theatrical menu. This is largely due to the absence of great actors from the present day stage. Players have made his dramas heavy and ponderous. They have shrouded the genius of the master by mystery which does not belong to his glorious works and by heavy, uninspired acting they have so clouded his true merit that it is no wonder that the average theatergoer would rather witness a hanging than sit through a Shakespearean tragedy. But Mantell has once more proven, as did the actors of old, that when properly presented, Shakespeare's dramas can be most interesting intense and holding.

Simplicity is the keynote of Shakespeare. By proper editing, the omission of unnecessary scenes and unimportant situations and characters, his dramas become powerful, tense and thrilling. Where, outside of Shakespeare, can one find such a tragedy as 'King Lear' which holds the spectator almost breathless? This master is of all times and ages. His appeal is universal. He wrote centuries ago and yet his themes are of those problems which still trouble the people of today as they have done for ages past and will for ages to come. In "King Lear," for instance, we see ingratitude, a most modern emotion dealt with in a manner such as to hold the most passing playgoer.

One can scarcely speak too highly of Robert Mantell who has rescued the master from the hands of mediocrities. If only there were a few more such players in this country, Shakespeare's dramas would soon gain their deserved place in the amusement world. Mantell insists on simplicity, the simplicity of Shakespeare. As for his impersonation of King Lear, it is enough to say that he is Lear. He is no longer the Mantell of private life, a robust strong man, but the king of Shakespearean lore. One sees nothing of his other portrayals in this characterization. He is Lear at one and all times.

The supporting company is generally creditable. Of course it is not perfect but it is such an advance over the Shakespearean companies of the day that one should not be too particular. Miss Marie Booth Russell as Goneril and Miss Agnes Elliott Scott as Regan give careful presentations of these two ungrateful daughters. Alfred Hastings as Gloster is excellent, and Fritz Leiber, if only he knew how to control that monstrous voice of his, would be more than pleasing. But as "King Lear" is really a one-man part and as Mantell in the present instance is that man, the other players do not have much opportunity.

VICTORY FOR ESTATE

Judge W. S. Morris Decides in Favor of Palmer Estate as Against State.

In the contest over a part of the inheritance tax demanded by the state, the Palmer estate, represented by former Mayor Henry C. Hall, scored a victory in the district court Monday, when Judge W. S. Morris overruled the state's motion to tax an item of $25,000 and sustaining the motion of Attorney Hall that another item of $33,000 be exempted from the tax. By these decisions the estate is relieved of $1,160 demanded by the state. Assistant Attorney General Rogers will appeal the case to the supreme court to establish a precedent for similar cases which may arise in the future.

Attorney Hall claimed that the item of $25,000 set aside for the maintenance of Glen Eyrie for one year after General Palmer's death should not be taxed by the state. He also contended that the $33,000 worth of securities held in other states should not be included in the residuary estate. County Judge J. E. Little, before whom the case was first tried, sustained the first motion of Mr. Hall, and denied the second. An appeal was then taken to the district court, by the state and the estate, respectively, in the two cases.

News of Local Courts

For assaulting Roy White, Ernest Collins, colored, has been fined $25 and costs by Justice Dunnington, and, in default of payment will serve 65 days in the county jail.

County Judge J. E. Little yesterday excused the jurors in his court until this morning when the case of Reiber vs. Tweedy will be heard. The suit grew out of damages alleged to have been inflicted on the plaintiff's crops by the defendant's cattle. It is an appeal from the justice court.

J. G. Simpson who was arrested in Chicago last week, was brought here yesterday by Sheriff George Birdsall to answer to a charge filed in the district court of passing bogus checks amounting to $400 on W. D. Pitchford from whom he had secured loans to make up his shortage at the Santa Fe city ticket office.

In eighteenth-century England the fashionable woman's headdress often had to be left untouched for weeks at a time.

Acid Dyspepsia

Nervous People Are Frequent Sufferers From Too Much Hydrochloric Acid in The Stomach.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

"Sour stomach," or acid dyspepsia is a form of indigestion in which entirely too much hydrochloric acid is secreted by the stomach. A sour taste in the mouth is the most common symptom of acid dyspepsia, and the saliva, which is normally alkaline, is found, when tested, to be changed to acid, or just the opposite of what it should be, and is a state of the secretion which causes rapid and extensive destruction of the teeth.

Everything eaten turns more or less sour in the stomach, but sweets and acid fruits are far worse in this respect than other foods. If the eructation of liquids from the stomach occurs, they have such an extremely sour taste as to set the teeth on edge.

Hydrochloric acid is an important constituent in the gastric juice, but when too much of it is secreted, it does positive harm to the mucous lining of the stomach, and when acid dyspepsia is long continued it often sets up chronic gastritis, gastric ulcer, and other serious diseases. The premature loss of all the teeth has been caused by acid saliva, which was dependent upon the excessively acid condition of the stomach.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS, besides furnishing pure, aseptic pepsin to the stomach to dilute the excess of hydrochloric acid, and to digest proteids and albuminous foods very thoroughly, also contain bismuth subnitrate and calcium carbonate, which are antagonistic to the acid, and therefore neutralize the effect of the excessive amount of acid in the stomach, and the continued use of these tablets will change the perverted condition of the secretions to a normal state.

If you are suffering from "hyperchlor-hydria," as physicians term it, or in other words acid dyspepsia, and experience a sour taste in the mouth, with acid eructations or heartburn, begin at once the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets using one or two after each meal or as may be required, and the same quantity at retiring time for. If this trouble is allowed to run on it may cause serious organic changes in the stomach. There are cases on record where the lining of the stomach has been completely eaten away through perverted action of the secretions.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been tried in all forms of indigestion and dyspepsia with unfailing success so that no matter which form you may be suffering from the quickest way to bring about a cure is through the use of these powerful stomach tablets.

Secure from your druggist a fifty cent box and get cured of acid dyspepsia or whatever form of indigestion you may be suffering. Also send us your name and address for free sample. Address F. A. Stuart Company, 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

CALLED MAYOR A LIAR, AND LOSES HIS JOB

Because E. S. Timmons, former assistant superintendent of the city water department, and more recently a day laborer in the department, called Mayor H. F. BOOK CARNIVAL TO BE BIG SUCCESS

Hundreds of Well-Known Women and Many Men Are Working in Aid.

Extensive preparations are being made for the book carnival to be given Friday afternoon and evening in Temple theater for the benefit of the local work of the Young Women's Christian association. Hundreds of well-known women, besides a number of men, are cheerfully devoting much time to the cause and the event will be a great success, socially and financially. Mrs. W. W. Williamson is chairman of the general committee of arrangements, and as she occupied the same position when the great book carnival of 1902 was given, the general oversight could not have been more competently placed. Mrs. E. L. Preston again fills the office of chairman of the finance committee, and her excellent work will go far toward this year's success.

Mrs. H. P. Farnsworth and Mrs. W. K. Jewett are in charge of the children's matinee, which will be from 3 to 6 o'clock, and they will have a series of pleasing surprises, not only for the children, but for the older folk as well, who will be sure to see the grand march of the children costumed to represent the title of a book or famous character. Miss Trott's student orchestra will furnish music throughout the afternoon.

In the evening there will be a special program, including music by Fink's orchestra. Those in costume will march in review before the judges' committee, which will award ribbons to those wearing the most artistic, the most appropriate and the most original costumes among both ladies and gentlemen.

Books Awarded.

Books will be awarded in the afternoon to children who appear in costumes best representing the three classes named. Also money prizes will be awarded to those handing in posters today to the Y. W. ASKED TO REMAIN

Denver Stockholders Want Local Men on Isabella Directorate. Object to Kilbourne.

It has developed that the Denver firm of Gardner, Kirton and company and associates, who want control of the Isabella Mines company, object to the management of George D. Kilbourne, rather than to the incumbency of Directors J. A. Hayes and Irving Howbert, both of this city, who practically hold control. Messrs. Hayes and Howbert will not fight for the control at the annual meeting, and say that they will gladly step down and out if a majority of the stockholders so desire. The Denver people, however, want them to remain on the directorate. The Colorado Springs men, it is said, are sending their proxies to Denver, and it is generally understood that Kilbourne will not again be manager, and, owing to his health, will not even become a candidate.

It is probable that after the annual stockholders' meeting in Cheyenne, Wyo., February 7, the Colorado office of the company will be removed from Colorado Springs to Denver.

FUNERAL—The funeral of Edgar Truax, the 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Truax, who died in Cripple Creek, Monday, will be held from the undertaking rooms of Fairleys and Law this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

KNEE TO ANKLE A MASS OF HUMOR

Suffering Simply Indescribable—Had to Scratch Till Blood Ran—Health Undermined from Lack of Sleep—Gave Up Hope but

CUTICURA FREED HIM FROM SKIN-TORMENT

"About seven years ago a small abrasion appeared on my right leg just above my ankle. It irritated me so that I began to scratch it and it began to spread until my leg from my ankle to the knee was one solid scale like a scab. The irritation was always worse at night and would not allow me to sleep, or my wife either, and it was completely undermining our health. I lost fifty pounds in weight and was almost out of my mind with pain and chagrin as no matter where the irritation came at work on the street or in the presence of company, I would have to scratch it until I had the blood running down into my shoe. I simply cannot describe my suffering during those seven years. The pain, mortification, loss of sleep both to myself and wife is simply indescribable on paper and one has to experience it to know what it is.

I tried all kinds of doctors and remedies, but I might as well have thrown my money down a sewer. They would dry it up for a little while and fill me with hope only to break out again just as bad if not worse. I had given up hope of ever being cured when I was induced by my wife to give the Cuticura Remedies a trial. After taking the Cuticura Remedies for a little while I began to see a change and after taking a dozen bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, in conjunction with the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, the trouble had entirely disappeared and my leg was as fine as the day I was born. Now after a lapse of six months with no sign of a recurrence I feel perfectly safe in extending to you my heartfelt thanks for the good the Cuticura Remedies have done for me. I shall always recommend them to my friends. W. H. White, 312 E. Cabot St., Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 4 and Apr. 13, 1908."

What the Press Agents Say

ROBERT MANTELL TODAY.

Robert Mantell, the famous player who scored so heavily last evening with his splendid portrayal of King Lear, will close his local engagement today with two productions of Shakespearean comedies. At the matinee, which commences sharply at 2:15, "As You Like It" will be seen. The evening play is "The Merchant of Venice." Good seats may still be obtained for both.

"As You Like It" tells of Rosalind's love for Orlando, a young man out of favor with the court. Rosalind, in order to know more of her love and to find out if Orlando really loves herself and not her wealth and position, disguises herself as a boy. She goes into the forest to find Orlando who had taken refuge there from the rage of the duke of the court. The development of the romance is charming and contains some of Shakespeare's rarest art. Miss Marie Booth Russell will be seen as Rosalind, one of her best parts, and Mr. Mantell will show his remarkable versatility by presenting Orlando, a character in direct contrast to the Lear of last evening.

In "The Merchant of Venice," the Mantell company is perhaps seen to its best advantage, so the press says. Each member seems fittingly suited to his role, and Mr. Mantell as Shylock and Miss Russell as Portia are at once original and pleasing. The Mantell production of "The Merchant of Venice" is one for the student as well as for the general theatergoer. In fact who ever wrote a more intensely interesting play than this story of the Jew and his great desire for revenge, not only because of the hatred of his race but because of the wrongs done himself personally.

"FORTY-FIVE MINUTES FROM BROADWAY"

Cohan and Harris will present George M. Cohan's musical play, "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," at the Opera House for one performance, only, next Saturday evening. An adequate cast, new scenery, costumes and the entire production which had a general overhauling under the direction of the well-known actor-author-manager-composer-director, George M. Cohan, will be seen. This production is now in its fifth year and because of the popularity of its book, the catchy music, the wit of the lines and the logic of the story, it still holds first place among all Cohan shows in the estimation of playgoers. There are said to be many really beautiful girls in the company and the principals include the following well-known and clever players: Charley Brown, Elizabeth Drew, Ninon Ristori, Louise Gardner, Susan Ghisnell, Eugene MacGregor, James Manning, James A. Davett, Harry Gwynette, George McIntosh, Roger Hurst, and others.

The seat sale for the local engagement of "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway" will commence at the box office in the Opera House pharmacy tomorrow morning. The prices are 50 cents to $1.50.

"BREWSTER'S MILLIONS."

The Denver press has been very enthusiastic over the production of "Brewster's Millions," which Frederick Thompson is sending on the road this season. As will be remembered by theatergoers the production of "Brewster's Millions" which was offered in this city on the two past occasions was the Cohan and Harris and not the original Frederick Thompson production which will now be seen here for the first time, next Monday evening.

"Brewster's Millions" is a dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's fantastic story of the young American who was compelled to spend a million dollars within a year, subject to certain restrictions such as not founding memorials, or giving any money away, in order that he might inherit a fortune of seven millions. The situations arising from this peculiar plight are diverting to say the least. The play had a run of almost a year in New York with long engagements in Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

The New York scenic production has been kept intact so local playgoers will see for the first time the yacht scene as it was originally given in New York a year ago. The company includes many of the original cast and is, altogether, well balanced and capable.

TIM MURPHY NEXT WEEK.

There is no actor who needs less puffery than Tim Murphy, which is of course the reason due to ask if that is why he gets so much. He insures his welcome on each return by the delight he gave on each preceding visit. His public do not take him at second-hand on a remote or foreign reputation, but at their own valuation after intimate acquaintance. By giving wholesome American plays of high artistic character and interpreting them in his sincere, quaint, and whimsical manner, he has made himself nearer and dearer to the great heart of the people than any other actor since Jefferson, Russell and Raymond left him alone as the typical native American comedian. Like the great French actor, Coquelin, he is master of the fonts of tears as well as smiles, for in the midst of an evening with Tim Murphy, he is sure to exhibit mastery over the various emotions of an audience which is the inalienable mark of an artist.

This year he is accompanied by the most competent supporting company he has ever taken on tour. At the head is Miss Dorothy Sherrod, whose grace and charm have distinguished Mr. Murphy's productions for several years. The genial comedian will be seen at the Opera House for one performance next Tuesday evening, appearing in "Cupid and the Dollar." Mr. Murphy is under the management of Louis F. Werba.

BURNT CORK GOOD FOR SKIN, SAYS AL EDWARDS

A person would naturally think that burnt cork, when applied to the face day after day, would be injurious to the skin. Al Edwards of the musical team of Steeley and Edwards, which is making a tremendous hit at the Majestic theater this week, says that the cork has just the opposite effect.

"I have been in the black face end of the theatrical game for 18 years, said Mr Edwards yesterday," and I figure that I have applied the cork to my face, in that period, about 10,000 times. When I began blacking up, my complexion was not very good, but now the skin on my face is clear and soft. I guess I have used up more than a ton of prepared burnt cork in my time and I expect to use another ton before I quit."

Steeley and Edwards two years ago played the Princess theater in London. While in the world's largest city they had an interesting experience in which the Prince of Wales was involved. It is not the custom there for people to take pictures of members of the royal family while they are out driving. Steeley and Edwards didn't know this. They had their cameras and were in a park one morning when the Prince of Wales drove along. They immediately took snap shots of him. An officer took both in charge and was reprimanding them severely when the prince sent one of his personal escort guards to inquire into the matter. When the performers told their names the prince said:

"I saw them at the Princess theater and enjoyed their cleverness very much. Ask the officer to desist."

Steeley is the only man who sings to an accompaniment played on the marambaphone. He sings "Dreaming of the Ohio," and the queer accompaniment helps make the effect very pleasing.

TO HAVE DELEGATES STOP OVER IN COLO. SPRINGS

Arrangements are being made to have a number of delegates to the Hotel Men's Benefit association convention, which will be held in Los Angeles in April, stop off in this city on their way home. The membership of the organization totals 2,500, and it is believed that at least 250 of the members will take advantage of the local invitation and spend several days here. The eastern delegates to the convention will travel in a special train.

HELPLESS AS A BABY

Pitiful State of Lady at Terrell, Whose Husband Had to Lift Her Up and Down.

TERRELL, Tex.—"It is my pleasant duty," writes Mrs. Rosanna Wilson of Terrell, Tex., "to acknowledge the benefit I have received from the Cardui Home Treatment.

"Last year I suffered untold misery and my husband tried doctors and all kinds of medicines, but I must tell you I would have been in my grave, if it had not been for Cardui.

"I was so weak last summer, my husband had to lift me up and down all the time and I did not weigh 90 pounds.

"Since taking three bottle of Cardui I weigh 100 pounds. It worked like a charm. I will never be without it any more. Every woman ought to keep it."

Every woman would always keep Cardui handy for use, if she knew what quick benefit it gave, in cases where weakened vitality makes the body and brain seem tired and worn-out.

A few doses of Cardui, at the right time, will save many a big doctor's bill, by preventing a serious sickness.

After exposure to cold or wet, after over-work, grief, or anything that weakens the vital forces, a few doses of Cardui will bring back your strength and prevent the ill effects that are otherwise nearly sure to come.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SENDS MONTHLY LETTERS

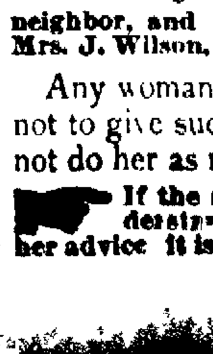

Over 300 news letters, each one containing a number of stories of recent events pertaining to and advertising Colorado Springs and the Pikes Peak region, were mailed by the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. They go to as many newspapers in the United States, Canada and Mexico each month, and are considered a valuable asset in the advertising of the city throughout the country.

Ask Her This Question

"Do you know of any woman who ever received any benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

If any woman who is suffering with any ailment peculiar to her sex will ask her neighbors this question, she will be surprised at the result. There is hardly a community in this country where women cannot be found who have been restored to health by this famous old remedy, made exclusively from a simple formula of roots and herbs.

During the past 30 years we have published thousands of letters from these grateful women who have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never, in all that time have we published a testimonial without the writer's special permission. Never have we knowingly published a testimonial that was not truthful and genuine. Here is one just received a few days ago. If anyone doubts that this is a true and honest statement of a woman's experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound write and ask her.

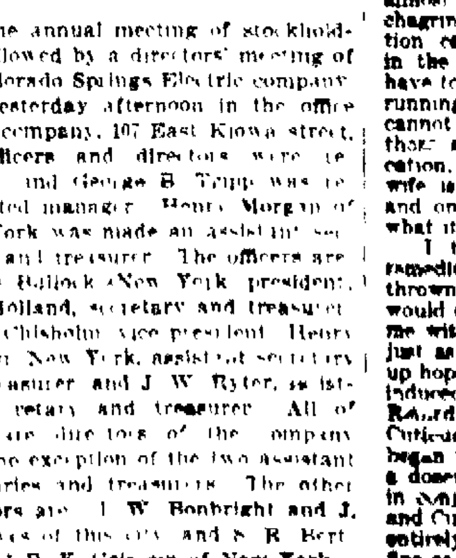

New Orleans, La.—"I suffered with inflammation and ulceration for a long time, and had dreadful backache and a weakness. I had been under the doctors' treatment for six months and they claimed I must be operated upon. I was in bed three weeks and could not turn over on either side the pains were so bad and I was so nervous.

"Then Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me by a neighbor, and I had taken it only a short time when I felt relieved and now I am a well woman. I am in fine health and feel like a young girl. I have recommended the Compound to my next door neighbor, and hope that all suffering women will try it."—Mrs. J. Wilson, 4016 Ulloa St., New Orleans, La.

Any woman who is sick and suffering is foolish surely not to give such a medicine as this a trial. Why should it not do her as much good as it did Mrs. Wilson.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice. It is free and always helpful.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of women is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round face, where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce Pres., Buffalo, N.Y.

OLIVE BRANCH CLAIM TO BE DEVELOPED

...'s P...it and Lease ...ilege Grants.—New Finds in Cripple Creek

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 25.—A. B. Whitmore of this district, representing Kansas City and Little Rock, Ark., capitalists, has secured a prospecting permit with option of a three years lease, on part of block 1, all of block 2, and that portion of the Olive Branch claim on Ironclad hill, owned by the Jerry Johnson Mining company, and has commenced work. The ground covered by the permit immediately adjoins the ground leased by Ed Gaylord of Denver, who, during the last year, mined and marketed ore therefrom of the gross bullion value of approximately $300,000 between February and December.

Lessee Gaylord has recently opened up an entirely new ore shoot by crosscut at the 400-foot level, carried into the schist. The Gaylord lease has shipped since the first of January 38 cars of ore of an average value of $30 to the ton.

Good Ore in Dante.

M. B. Rapp of this city, who recently secured a lease on the south end of the Dante mine on Bull hill, formerly operated by the British American Mining company, has opened up a new ore body at the 500-foot level of the No. 2 shaft. The pay streak is between two and one-half and three feet wide and the ore will ship at about $30 to the ton.

The Dante Gold Mining company is operating on company account in the bottom level of the Dante No. 1 shaft and at the 500-foot level north of the No. 2 shaft, but has not yet commenced shipping.

Discover New Shoot.

Miller, Michey and company, operating a sublease from the Clements Leasing company, at the fifth level of the Gold Sovereign Mining and Tunnel company's main shaft, have opened up a new ore shoot. The pay streak is fully four feet wide between walls and the drift has been carried 40 feet with shipping values still obtaining in the breast. When stoping is commenced the lessees expect to materially increase the present output. The ore is of a good average milling grade

New Vein in Lucky Corner.

A new vertical vein, carrying a course parallel to the main vertical vein of the Lucky Corner mine, has been unexpectedly encountered by General Manager Harold D. Thompson of the Lucky Corner Leasing company, one of the corporations controlled by the Humphreys-Thompson syndicate. The new vein carries an east and westerly course, and so far as developed the ore mined therefrom is of a good average grade.

GIVE GREATER POWER TO C. & S. OFFICIALS

DENVER, Jan. 25.—The Post today says.

A. D. Parker, vice president of the Colorado and Southern railroad, which is owned by the Burlington system, has just returned from a conference with Hill officials in Chicago vested with new power and authority, and he is now the directing force in Colorado and Southern roads.

George B. Harris, president of the Burlington, has not resigned, according to official information given out here today, but Mr. Harris is to go to Europe on a year's vacation, and during his absence Darius Miller, first vice president, in charge of both traffic and operation, will be the active head of all the Hill lines.

Many important changes will follow the increase of authority vested with Mr. Parker, so it was reported today, and among the first of these will be the consolidation of Burlington and Colorado and Southern foreign agencies, with a preference given to present Colorado and Southern employes.

Not only will Mr. Parker be supreme in command of the Burlington and Colorado and Southern lines in Colorado and the west, but he will also be the deciding power in all other local roads in which either of these companies is interested. This has reference to the Midland and Cripple Creek Short Line.

FORCE STOCK SALES AT FALLING PRICES

MARKETS FLOODED WITH OFFERINGS.

Prices Break to Lowest Level Since August—Fluctuation of ...Alarms Speculators.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. Stocks broke from three to seven points this afternoon in several of the most active issues with a violence not often exceeded on the exchange in periods of absolute demoralization.

Early sales were in enormous volume, and flooded the market from every quarter. Some of the severest losses were in Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, Amalgamated Copper, U. S. Steel and Consolidated Gas. The announcement of an extra dividend on Steel common was not made until after the close of the market and did not affect the behavior of Steel for the day.

This rush of liquidation was generally conceded to be speculative, and Wall Street, in explanation, professed acute anxiety over the attitude of President Taft toward corporations in general, both good and "bad."

There was a momentary lull and a following rally after the issuance of a statement from the White House expostulating against the sensational intentions attributed to the government; but, at the last, the weakness of the market again became acute, and closing prices were near the lowest.

At the same time the banks were exercising a rigid discrimination against some stocks held as collateral for loans, which have come under suspicion of manipulation.

Prices of wheat, corn, cotton, oats and pork declined at the same time with stocks.

Total sales of stocks for the day reached the unusual figure of 1,167,861 shares, against 583,786 a year ago.

Bonds were weak. Total sales, par value, $5,163,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

RALLY FOLLOWS SLUMP ON CHICAGO BOARD

Covering by Shorts Reverses Course of Market for Grain and Provisions

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—Grain and provisions declined materially early in the session today under selling pressure accentuated by the persistent protest against the high cost of foodstuffs. Shorts, however, took advantage of the trend and rushed to cover, reversing the course of the market and causing an advance in the price of practically every commodity in the pits.

Wheat led the grains in the extent of both the decline and the subsequent advance ranging from 1¼ to 3¾, in which the May delivery was the star performer. At the outset the May option slumped 1¾ and on the rally it advanced to ¾ above yesterday. The range for the day on May was between $1.08¾ and $1.10¾. The market closed strong, at almost the high points, with May up ¾@⅞, at $1.10¾ @⅝.

In corn an early slump was followed by a decided advance, which carried the futures over a range of from 1⅛ to 1⅝. The May option, which went up to 67½, from 66⅝, closed strong, ⅜@½ up, at 67⅜@½. All the futures closed strong, with a general advance of from ⅜ to ⅝.

Oats kept within a range of from ⅜ to ⅞. The close was strong, with May yielding a net gain of ¼, at 47⅝.

The clamor against high-priced meats aided by liquidating sales caused a falling off in the early prices in the provisions pit. The offerings were absorbed later by shorts and packers, and an upward trend was given the market. Closing figures on the May delivery were pork, 2½ up, at $20.52½; lard was 7½ down, at $11.80, and ribs unchanged to 2½ up, at $11.17½ to $11.20.

OCEAN STEWARD A PRIZE WINNER IN GETTING TIPS

The Ordinary Walter but a "Child in Arms" Beside Him.

From the Chicago Tribune.

The size of the tips of the waiter in the high class city restaurants long has furnished material for protests against the tipping habit, but there really isn't anything to it. His tips aren't exorbitant. In the matter of "macing" a patron for a little extra service or attention the ordinary waiter is a child in arms. Before a New York or Chicago waiter could hope to qualify as a big tip getter he would have to take a course of lessons from the men who get the biggest tips in the world. Who are they? Why, nobody but the stewards on the big ocean liners, of course.

These are the men to whom tip getting is high finance. Compared to them the waiter who insinuates himself into a 25 cent tip is a novice. He dabbles in pennies; the ship steward goes after dollars. The waiter congratulates himself on every 50 cent patron that visits his tables; the steward calculates that the passenger who doesn't leave $25 with him before the end of the passage is "cheap." As a result, the steward on one of the big liners probably makes and saves more on a salary of $30 a month than anybody else in the world.

Waiters in the Kindergarten.

They way he does it is a high school lesson for tip hunting waiters. He has reduced the task of tip getting to a fine art. In addition to this, he has his victims out on high seas where they can't get away from him, where they are absolutely at his mercy, and he makes the most of the golden opportunity offered him. Passengers, especially those making their first trips, are apt to be thrown into the hands of the steward at the first rough weather, for the fact that people get seasick is what gives the steward his lever to pry a section off his victim's bank rolls.

Imagine a beginner in ocean travel, alone, and so ill that he knows there is no joy in life, that his existence is ruined, that the future is nothing but a dark brown fog. He rolls and tosses in his misery and his stateroom. He would give anything for something to make him feel better. Further, he does. The steward in charge of his stateroom has got just the thing he wants. He doesn't sell it; he keeps it to give to passengers. Not only that, but he does everything to make easier the seasick hours of the woebegone traveler. Does the traveler appreciate it? Does he! He appreciates it to the extent of satisfying even the greedy steward's hope for a tip. The steward is his savior, his friend and brother. Result: $25 for steward, or the passenger is "cheap."

Thirst Knows No Expense.

The deck steward is the one who reaps the richest harvest. His pay usually is $30 a month and board. The $30 is a mere bagatelle. If he didn't make more than that every week he would be ashamed of his reputation. His ways of extracting the desired tip are many and wily. For instance, the bars on the big liners close at 11 o'clock. But the thirst of the passengers often refuses to stop at the same hour. The deck steward knows it. He carries a little line of liquor of his own.

The moment the bar is closed the steward begins. He lets the thirsty one know that perhaps he may be able to get him refreshments, though the risk is so great that perhaps

"GeGt it," is the retort, "We'll make it worth your while."

The steward gets it, and the graft is rich. As the hour grows later and the "risk" grows greater, the price of drinks advances. The steward is humble. The gentlemen can pay what they please. He names the process of bribing through which he is forced to go through to get to the bar. Of course, the gentlemen will pay for that? Certainly. So extensive is this business on some of the liners that one deck steward sailing from New York buys his drink supply by wholesale.

The cabin steward comes next on the list in the matter of rich rewards. Sometimes he is first, as for instance, when the boat happens to be carrying a millionaire who is easy with his money. Then the lucky steward under whose charge falls the rich man's stateroom is the envied of all his fellows. If he happens to please, and the millionaire happens to be in a generous mood, he may garner a year's salary on one trip. A thousand dollars is the record tip in such cases, and it was paid by a western millionaire returning after a visit in Europe. The fortunate steward, stunned by the big man's generosity, said "Then, perhaps, sir, you wouldn't mind writing me a testimonial to the effect that I pleased you, sir?"

"Testimonial, your grandmother," bellowed the millionaire, as he waved his hand at the statue of Liberty. "I'm just $1,000 glad to get back home."

"Mark" Always in Sight.

The cabin steward has three staterooms under his charge and two tables in the dining room. He gets tips for taking care of the rooms, for running errands, and for waiting at meals. He gets them "coming and going." In fact, there is little time aboard ship when one or another steward has not got his eye on a passenger in hope of a tip.

The restaurant waiter is hampered in his art. Most of his patrons return time and again, being regular customers of the restaurant. The steward sees his people for five days at a time, and then probably never again all his life. He need not worry about what they may give him in the future. He knows what they should give him today, and in one way or another he sees that they do it.

The chief steward of a boat is paid $50 to $65 a month, and he refuses to be tipped in ordinary fashion. If a passenger at the end of a pleasant voyage wishes to show his appreciation of the chief's services he is permitted to slip him a $50 bill or thereabouts. The chief accepts it with condescension, because usually by the time a steward has risen to this position he has laid by enough to make him practically independent for life. Most stewards save. Their tips pile up in the bank until there is enough for the purpose they are working for. Then out comes the money, the steward resigns, and presently his name appears over a new restaurant, cafe or hotel. There are scores of such places in every large sea coast city. They stand as testimonials to the size of the best tipped people in the world, the ocean going stewards.

REVOLT IS STARTED ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Ye ... Movement Seeks to Overthrow Old Management Sequel to Hocking Scandal.

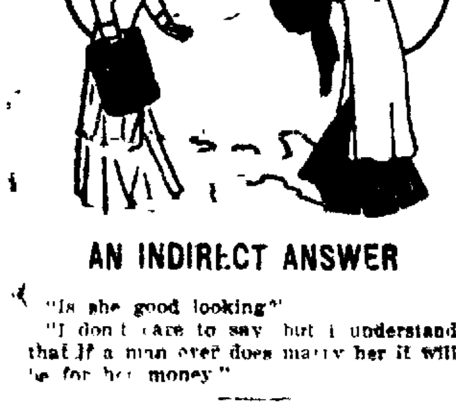

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—A revolt that constitutes the most menacing internal condition that has ever confronted the New York stock exchange was reported in Wall Street today to have followed the Hocking Valley scandal of last week. An active campaign by the younger element in the floor membership and representatives of many of the leading commission houses which has for its purpose the overthrow of President Thomas and his governing committee is said to be in full swing.

It has been known for some time that many of the big Wall Street houses which deal mainly with the public have been dissatisfied with the way in which the exchange has been run for the past year or two and felt that the class of business which they represent should have representation on the board of governors at least equal to that of the big manipulators The Hocking scandal has lined up with these many young and vigorous floor members who seem to think that the disposition of the management is not to give R. H. Criss, the floor man of the suspended Roberts Hall and Criss firm, a square deal in the Hocking investigation

Criss' friends are said to maintain that the Hocking pool members who are trying to dodge the losses and responsibility for the work which successfully rocketed the stock from 22 to 91½ by repudiating contracts which they made with him must be made to toe the mark and pay their share of the $3,000,000 they are trying to saddle on Criss when carrying out orders for them which he had accepted in good faith

Pools, say these insurgents, are altogether too tolerantly viewed by the present management providing they are representative of sufficiently big interests while discipline is meted out to the members of houses without a "pull" in heroic measure. In other words, they say, favorites are played exclusively in the conduct of exchange affairs.

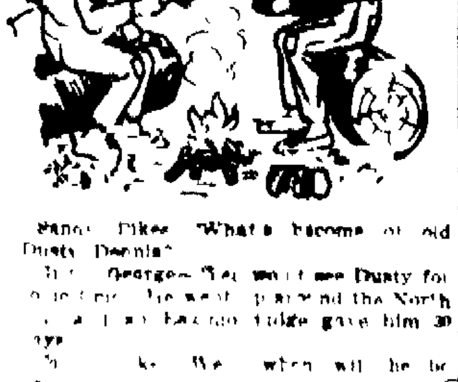

What form the revolt will finally take, whether it will be content to await the election to make its influence felt or whether a petition of protest which was said to be circulating for signers today means that some earlier and more radical step is contemplated, could not be learned
